Ever since 1910, when Robert Reid painted the mural on the wall of the Classical High School auditorium, "The Light of Education" has been an inspiration to the student body. The light depicted in the painting is sustained by the arts and sciences and has played a meaningful role in school life throughout the history of Classical High School.

Foreword

In the 1967 edition of Blue and White, the staff has tried to emphasize educational growth at Classical High School. Accordingly, on the cover, a spiraling vine of ivy symbolizes this growth. The end sheets depict the enthusiasm generated by a capacity crowd at a Classical football game. For the division page of the administration section, the strong and substantial Memorial Bridge serves as a reminder of the similar link between the administration and the larger student body. The city of Springfield has watched and taken an active interest in the development of Morganetta, the baby elephant at Forest Park. A picture of this young and growing animal seems appropriate to introduce the student section. The activities divider page shows the Springfield Armory which has long played an important role in gym classes and band practices, and which will soon play an even more important part in Springfield's industrial and educational expansion.

When the student body, with one hundred and thirty more students than last year, entered the school in September, they found many changes in the building. During the summer months, the old wooden floors of the corridors and those of some forty classrooms were transformed into modern tiled ones. Seven rooms of outdated and worn desks were replaced with new furniture. Other physical differences included boys' and girls' rooms on the second floor, a much needed new locker room for the boys, and a bright coat of paint in the annex of the cafeteria.

In addition to the startling material improvements, there were also some major differences in school policy. The administration made significant changes in the honor roll system and granted new privileges to members of the National Honor Society. Students have taken an added interest in extra-curricular activities and in the winning athletic teams. The good spirit generated at Classical High School during the current year enabled our school to maintain its high academic rating and fine reputation among college preparatory schools.

Mayor Ryan (left) and Mrs. Lynch welcome Dr. Deady (right) to his new position as superintendent of schools in Springfield.

Mr. James E. Fleming

We who were privileged to have known and to have worked with Mr. Fleming were all deeply impressed by his constant devotion to his duties in life regardless of the circumstances under which he had to perform them.

A man like Mr. Fleming cannot be easily forgotten, nor can he be easily replaced. The spirit that he brought to Classical and his students will remain in the hearts of all that knew him. Even until his last day at Classical, the school to which he was so devoted, he gave his undivided attention to each student even to helping them after school. Little did we know that he loved every one of us in such a way that he served us until his very death.

Mr. Fleming's life, as any other human life, cannot be measured in duration of time — for a man's life is truly measured by his accomplishments. The philosophy that Mr. Fleming taught and to which so many graduates of Classical High School were exposed might best be revealed in the words of one of his favorite prayers:

"May the road rise up to meet you
And the wind be always at your back,
And may the Lord forever hold you in the hollow of His hand."

ADMINISTRATION

MEMORIAL BRIDGE

The Memorial Bridge, spanning the Connecticut River, has long been a prominent landmark in Springfield since its official opening on August 3, 1922. Built at a cost of $6,000,000, the structure is 1500' long and 80' wide accommodating four lanes of traffic between this city and West Springfield. The major objective during construction was the creation of a useful bridge without sacrificing beauty. This span serves to connect two thriving communities much the same as the strong link between the administration of Classical High School and its ever increasing student body.

Shiras

An understanding administration is alert

Our principal, MR. RAYMOND J. MONTAGNA, needs no introduction to any Classicalite.

Mr. Raymond Montagna, Principal

When a student attends his first assembly at Classical he is welcomed by Mr. Montagna. From then on each student knows that he can count on his principal for praise if it is due or criticism when it is merited. Quite often Mr. Montagna enters the assembly hall beaming with pride at an accomplishment of a student and loves to present awards to deserving students. Mr. Montagna is a busy man. He plans our various assemblies, makes teacher assignments, supervises school activities, arranges for substitutes and plans for repairs and maintenance of the school plant. He is in charge of curriculum revision and parent-teacher-student conferences also. In fact, his duties seem to continue endlessly, and he handles them admirably. He himself attended American International College where he received his BS in biology. At Springfield College he received his master of education and did further graduate work at both Springfield College and the University of Massachusetts. The ever-increasing population of Classical makes greater demands on Mr. Montagna's time and energy but his enthusiasm for youth and their ideas will never permit him to do anything but his best as he strives to "encourage each student to achieve to the limit of his ability."

to the needs of an ever-growing student body.

Although very modest about his position at Classical, Mr. Russell W. Peterson tends to create harmony among teachers and students. He knows that the reputation our school enjoys is the result of good faculty-student relationships. He has great faith in our students and sincerely feels they are well aware of their educational objectives. Mr. Peterson, who received both his B.S. and M.S. from Springfield College, has many duties as an administrator.

One of the most important is student programming. He is busy from the beginning of May until the end of October arranging student programs. In fact, during the first few weeks of school he is in room 109 helping students with their schedules. During the school year Mr. Peterson is busy with attendance and detention. He is always trying to help the students as much as possible.

The counseling staff is always ready

Miss Mary E. Corcoran received her B.A. at Westfield State College, and her M.Ed. at Springfield College. Her interests include traveling, the theater, and trips to many different colleges. Miss Corcoran believes that the students here at Classical need to take advantage of the facilities in the counseling office in an organized manner. Miss Corcoran is discussing college plans with Louise Gregg.

One of the many duties of the counselors is to organize college conferences for the convenience of Classical students. Mrs. Ramos is the state treasurer of the Women Deans and Counselors. She is also active in several organizations. She received her B.A. and M.Ed. at Bates College. Mrs. Ramos is arranging, with Mr. Sawyer of New England College, Henniker, New Hampshire, a conference with Classical students.

The only Classical guidance counselor not to be found in room 103 is Mr. Arthur C. Comeau. His office in 109 is, in fact, quite removed from the counseling room. Besides counseling and advising the many students with which he's charged, he's kept busy with many other duties. He has charge of all school testing, computing student's rank in class, and the graduation honors lists. He holds degrees from the State College of Fitchburg and Boston University and did graduate study at Springfield College. Among his hobbies, Mr. Comeau lists reading, music, and photography. Mr. Comeau is helping junior Adelaide Zayas find information in the college catalogue.

to help a Classical student.

Mr. Baron McDuffee, the newest counselor at Classical, is greatly impressed with our school and its academic environment. He received his B.A. and M.A. at Fitchburg State Teachers College, sixth level certificate in administration at the University of Connecticut, and his M.A. in counseling and pupil services at the University of New York at Buffalo. Mr. McDuffee is the guidance counselor for the class of 1969 and enjoys working with students like Toni Spinelli.

Mr. John G. Shea promotes the interests of the boys in his class and prepares them for active participation in whatever life work they may choose to follow. Mr. Shea helps one of his students, Joseph Viver.

Important to any school is the nurse. Mrs. Rose Burns, the nurse which we share with adjoining Classical Junior High School, is, no doubt, gratifying to those students who meet with ill health and accidents during school hours. Mrs. Burns is a graduate of Mercy Hospital of Nursing. She is ready for any emergency as Carol Horowitz will testify.

The secretaries keep

The secretary in the counselor's office is Mrs. Mary Basile. She handles the reference materials, gives out college conference passes, and helps type up many college transcripts.

Among Mrs. Mary Sheehan's numerous duties are the preparation of the morning bulletin, and answering many outside telephone calls. She says that she likes the students at Classical and enjoys working here.

Mrs. Lena Lovett, a new secretary at Classical, has charge of the register, new enrollees, and transfers. She also takes Mr. Montagna's correspondence.

Classical running smoothly.

Mrs. Rose Rubino is our senior secretary. Her duties include ordering books and other supplies. She also handles the seniors' transcripts, a most important task.

Because of the many transcripts from November to May, Mrs. Irene Norris assists Mrs. Rubino during that time. She types up transcripts and helps in all the other duties in the office.

Miss Isabelle Brown is our school librarian. A graduate of Mount Holyoke College and Syracuse University, she also taught the Latin class briefly at the beginning of the year.

Miss Dorothy Porter is Classical's extremely busy typing teacher. Her schedule includes twelve typing classes and advising the Blue and White business matters. She is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and Indiana University.

Could there be anything more complicated

Mr. Donnelly, Miss Regina, Miss Mills, Mr. Pervonga, Mrs. Erard, and Mr. Courtney are discussing ways to challenge their students.

Mr. Bernard Donnelly said that he would like to help his students master the language so that they will appreciate its beauty and power. Besides his classes in English and Dramatics, he is the adviser to the Senior Class and the Senior Class Book. He received his A.B. from Brown University and his M.A. in English from the University of Pennsylvania.

One of our new English teachers is Miss Teresa Regina. She received her B.S. from Springfield College and her M.A. from Mount Holyoke College.

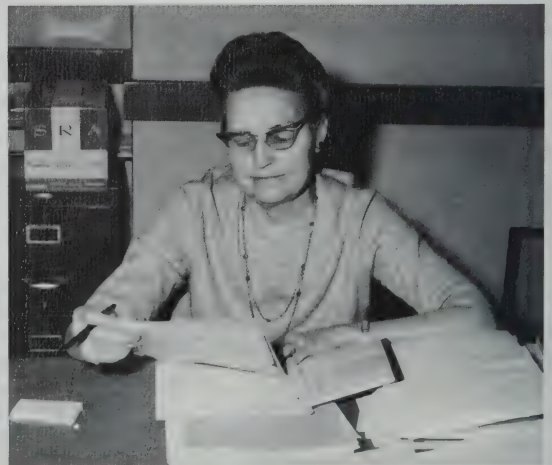

Miss Virginia Mills received her A.B. from Bates College and her M.A. from Trinity College in Hartford. Besides her classes in English and Speech she is also the adviser to the literary magazine The Scribe. Travel is her major interest and she has studied in the British Isles.

As the Dramatic adviser to Carousal Mr. Richard Pervonga is kept quite busy in addition to his classes in English and Dramatics. He received his B.A. from American International College, his M.A. from Boston University, and has also studied at Indiana University.

Mrs. Mary Erard teaches English. She is also a Senior Class adviser and adviser to the I.R.C. club. She received her B.A. from Our Lady of the Elms and her M.A. from American International College. When asked about her outside activities, she replied: "My Three Sons."

Mr. Joseph Courtney teaches English and is also the new adviser to the Recorder Staff. He received both his M.A. and his A.B. from Boston College.

Besides her classes in English, Reading Efficiency, and Creative Writing, Mrs. Mabel Morrill is the adviser for the Classical Student Handbook. She received her B.L.I. from Emerson College and her M.A. from Boston University.

Mrs. Morrill is busy correcting papers for her Creative Writing class.

Than English?

Miss Ruth Dickerman, who is the chairman of the English Department at Classical, can often be found in the new English office in room 245. Besides her classes in English and Speech she is also the adviser to Girl's Patrol. Miss Dickerman received her B.A. from Mount Holyoke and her M.Ed. from Springfield College.

"Happiness is finding and appreciating the best and the beautiful in every facet of one's world," says Miss Christine Sauer who finds much happiness in working with students. She teaches English, Reading Efficiency, and Vocabulary Building. She is also adviser to Pierides and trains students for the Annual Voice of Democracy Contest. Miss Sauer received her B.S. and M.A. from Columbia University and has done further graduate work at Springfield College.

One of the many teachers who oftens sends his students to the library, for Miss Brown's assistance in their research is Mr. Lewis Tenczar. He received his B.A. from the University of Massachusetts, his M.Ed. from Our Lady of the Elms, and is presently doing additional graduate work at the University of Massachusetts. He is also the adviser to the Classical United Fund.

Mr. Francis Girr teaches both English and Vocabulary Building and handles the delivery of books for the English department. His sense of humor aids him in his teaching as many of his students know. Mr. Girr received his A.B. from the University of Rhode Island and his M.A. from the University of Connecticut.

Mr. Henry Brady, Jr. feels that English should be taught as a contemporary language and that it is important to teach literature in terms of the world in which we live. He received both his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Baylor University, his B.D. from Yale University, and has done additional graduate work at Harvard University. In addition to his English classes, he is the adviser to the Senate.

Miss Almeda King has a sincere love for literature. Besides her classes in English she is kept busy with many Student Government activities. Miss King received her B.S. in education from Bridgewater State College and her M.A.L.S. in literature from Wesleyan University.

At a meeting of the language department, Spanish teacher Miss McCormick stands to discuss a point while the other department teachers listen with interest. (Front row) Miss Rouillard, Mrs. Cobb, Mr. LeClair, Dr. Frederick (standing). Second row: Mrs.

Scagnelli, Miss Meunier, Miss Boylan. Third row: Miss McCarthy, Mr. Curley, Dr. Miller. Back row: Miss McCormick, Mr. Lussier, and Mr. Smith.

Miss Irene Rouillard teaches French at Classical. She also advises the French Club. She has attended Wellesley College, Middlebury College, and the University of Paris.

Mrs. Leda M. Scagnelli, a Classical Junior High School teacher, is the only Italian teacher at the high school level. Her Italian I and II courses are therefore filled with students from the three city high schools. Mrs. Scagnelli attended the State College at Worcester and the Casa Italiana at Columbia University. At one time, she taught at the University of Rome.

Miss Mary E. McCarthy is completing her first year at Classical. She teaches Spanish and is adviser to the Freshmen class. She received her A.B. from Our Lady of the Elms and M.Ed. from Springfield College.

Newly-arrived, Miss Regina A. McCormick has quickly adjusted to Classical. She is a graduate of Marywood College, from which she received her A.B. degree. During our Carousel show this year, she was in charge of costuming the various performers. Outside of school, she loves to ski.

Miss Irene Meunier teaches classes of French II and III. She also handles publicity for the school. She graduated from Our Lady of the Elms, and did graduate work at Laval University in Quebec and Assumption College in Worcester.

Mr. Robert J. Curley, new to the language department this year, teaches Latin and French. He received his B.A. degree from Holy Cross. He's also interested in music and playing golf when not in school.

Mr. Raymond Lussier is also a teacher of French. He has done graduate work in France and has attended the University of Massachusetts, Connecticut State College, State College at Westfield, Assumption College, and Springfield College.

Mr. Stephen LeClair teaches French and German. He graduated from the University of Massachusetts with B.A. and M.A. degrees, and is currently adviser to the German Club.

we should know their language.

Chairman of the language department, Dr. Edna C. Fredrick is also a French teacher at Classical. She also advises the National Honor Society and is in charge of the language laboratories. She received her A.B. from Mount Holyoke College, her M.A. and Ph.D from Bryn Mawr College in Pennsylvania, and has studied in Europe.

Chairman of the language department, and in charge of the language laboratories, Dr. Fredrick is called many times in one day to resolve difficulties in the labs. Here, she adjusts the tone control on the console in Room 116.

Mrs. Martha K. Cobb, Spanish and French teacher at Classical, believes in bringing to her students a cultural understanding of the country whose language they study. She has found her extensive travels an invaluable asset in lecturing her classes. Mrs. Cobb holds a Bachelor and Masters degree from Howard University, has attended the Sorbonne in Paris, and the Inter-American University in Mexico. She is the adviser for the Spanish Club.

Adviser to the Hebrew Club, Dr. Philip Miller teaches Hebrew and French. He has studied in France and Israel, and has attended the College of the City of New York and the Teacher's Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary.

Mr. Francis J. Smith, Latin and U.S. history teacher, is Because of her travels to Spain and Spanish American countries, Miss Teresa C. Boylan can bring a store of information to her Spanish classes. Besides Spanish, she teaches English and advises the Blue and White yearbook staff. She received her A.B. from Trinity College in Washington D.C., her Ed.M. from Harvard University, and attended the University of Madrid in Spain. Outside of school, Miss Boylan enjoys traveling.

completing his second year at Classical. In school, he is in charge of lights for Carousel and advises the Latin Club. He graduated from Holy Cross, and received his Masters of Education at the University of Massachusetts. Outside of school, Mr. Smith skis, plays piano, swims, travels, and takes an active interest in politics.

The Unico Club, represented by president Fred Chechile and past president Samuel A. Cardone, presents a tape recorder to Mrs. Scagnelli for use in the Italian course at Classical. Also present are inter-high school students Patricia Wilder of Commerce, Robert Watson of Classical, and Elena Corti of Technical.

Through social studies we become

Members of the social studies department, Mr. Meder, Mr. Young, Mrs. Bowen, and Mr. Corbin, seem involved in an important discussion of topics of the day.

Mr. Daniel Bresnahan explains his course to interested parents.

Miss Mary K. Morris awaits her class.

Mr. Daniel Meder has varied responsibilities at Classical. Besides teaching American government, American history, and world history, he is a junior class adviser, the school store supervisor, and the coach of the J.V. basketball team. Mr. Meder has attended Springfield College, Trinity College, and American International College.

Mr. William Young, chairman of the social studies department, teaches American, European, and Ancient histories. His first-hand knowledge of Anthropology and Archaeology is eagerly sought by the members of his Anthropology class. Mr. Young is chairman of the senior class advisers and has his A.B. from Syracuse University and his A.M. from the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Barbara Bowen, adviser to student government, teaches American history and economics. She received her Bachelor's degree from Mt. Holyoke College and her Master's degree from American International College. Mrs. Bowen enjoys reading, music, and sailing in her spare time.

One of the busiest teachers at Classical is Mr. Milton Corbin. He escorts his Problems of Democracy classes on various field and service trips, among them the city hospitals and Our Lady of Providence Home for Children. In this way he illustrates to his students democracy in action. Mr. Corbin also teaches American history and advises the International Relations Club.

Mr. Daniel Bresnahan, the Boys' Patrol adviser, is in his seventh year at Classical and is kept busy teaching American, accelerated American, and modern European histories. Among the colleges he has attended are Holy Cross, Springfield College, and the University of Massachusetts. Mr. Bresnahan has a family of five, enjoys sports, and is a football scout for two colleges.

Miss Mary K. Morris teaches American history and Problems of Democracy and is concerned with the growing problems of today. She advises the future teacher's club and has received degrees from Yale University and Westfield State College. Miss Morris enjoys music, art, and stamp collecting.

aware of our changing world.

Mr. William Young's Anthropology class learns about past civilizations and the rise and fall of man. Mr. Young explains ancient artifacts to Joseph Dziedzic, Larry Krasner, Pauline Rogers, and Dale Berkey.

Mr. Milton Corbin's Problems of Democracy classes sponsored a successful Goodwill drive. Mr. Paul Affleck expresses his appreciation on behalf of the needy to John Renaud, Janie Kowarsky, and Karen Ehrlich.

No computer can best

Mr. Wessman + Miss Hart + Mrs. Beverley + Mr. Andrews + Mrs. Bale + Mr. Szetela + Mr. Pare + Mr. Jermakian (+ Mr. Laude below) adds up to a fine Math department.

Mr. Robert Wessman, who is a director of Student Treasury and a trustee of the Liberty Chest, is known among Classical students for his good-natured gruffness. His outside activities include reading, metal, and wood-working.

Miss Patricia Hart is an adviser to the Class of 1968 and a member of the Carousel Make-up Committee. She is a graduate of Our Lady of the Elms College and Ohio State University.

Mrs. Julia Beverley teaches modern algebra and geometry. A graduate of Classical High, she went to Wellesley College and Columbia University. She is also an adviser to the Junior Red Cross.

Returning to Classical after a one year sabbatical leave at Boston College, Mr. Robert Stevens is back in 313. Some of his outside interests are tennis, hiking, and gardening. In school he is an adviser to the Class of '69.

Mr. George Andrewes, in addition to his responsibilities as chairman of the Math Department, is an adviser to the Mathletes and Student Treasury. He holds degrees from Yale and Columbia Universities. Some of his outside interests are hiking, traveling, and reading.

Mrs. Julia Bale is an adviser to the Class of '69 and is also in charge of tickets and publicity for Carousel. She is a graduate of Hunter College and Columbia University, and will soon complete a National Science Foundation program at the University of New Mexico.

Mr. Walter Szetela, an adviser to the Mathletes, is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the University of Massachusetts. One of his outside interests is finding the formula for the number of particles in the universe.

Mr. Richard Pare is the coordinator of the Audio-Visual Aids department. One of his outside activities is golf. He graduated from the University of Massachusetts.

Mr. Arman Jermakian is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts and the University of the State of New York. He is an adviser to the Class of '68 and coach of the bowling and golf teams.

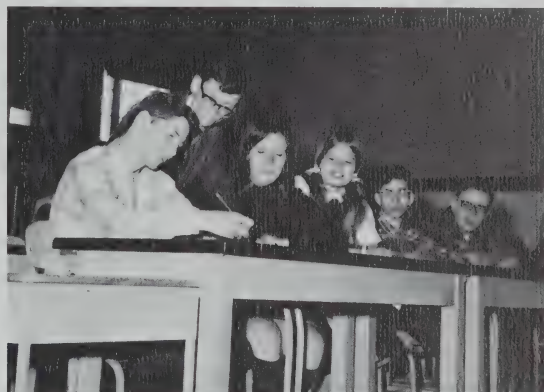

Here is the missing factor, Mr. Laude.

our Math Department.

The Classical High School Mathletes are a team of the best mathematics students in the school. Under the supervision of Mr. George Andrewes and Mr. Walter Szetela, the team competes with other area high schools in solving difficult math problems. The Mathletes team members are chosen for their accomplishments in problem-solving sessions, which are held on Friday during the fourth period. These sessions are held in the same manner as regular Mathletes' meets; the students are separated into teams of five and then given five formidable problems to solve. The Mathletes team has done fairly well this year, although not as well as in years past, and has always shown good sportsmanship and a desire to do its best.

James Carabetta, Donna Zerwitz, Cheryl McDowell, Eugene Fisher, Larry Durgin, and Scott Levine observe Mr. Andrewes' "simple solution" to an impossible problem.

Mr. Szetela checks the work of Steve Durgin, while Marilyn Newman, Carolyn Whiting, John Chaiken, and James Bennett look on.

Would-be Mathletes are captured in an exciting moment of a problem-solving session.

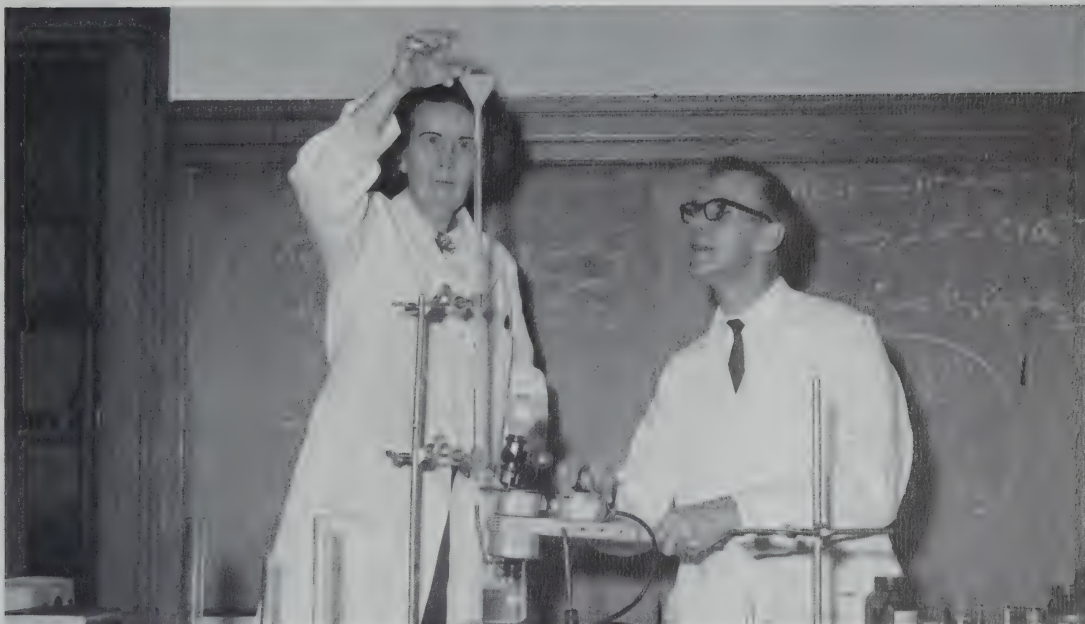

Chairman Howard Lynch (his hand) presents Mr. Shea, Miss Laramée, Mr. Scibelli, and Mr. Guzowski.

Mr. Lynch is an interested observer as Mr. Lundrigan and Mr. O'Donnell set up the weight for a physics project.

a challenge to Classical students.

Mrs. Towne and Mr. Lamoureux are working with a Burette magnetic stirrer and electrodes and lights.

The Science Department has done much to advance the knowledge of many Classical students. In spite of the population growth, the Science Department has maintained its good standards.

Chairman of the Science Department, Mr. Howard Lynch teaches physics. He received his B.A. from Harvard, and also did graduate work at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Lynch enjoys music and camping.

Mr. Richard G. Guzowski is currently teaching physics and mathematics. He received his B.A. and M.Ed. at the University of Massachusetts. Mr. Guzowski enjoys traveling and recently went cross-country camping.

Miss Erline D. Laramée is an adviser to the Class of '68 and the Future Nurses' Club. She teaches biology and physiology. Miss Laramée received her B.A. in biology at Anna Maria College and did graduate work at Smith College. She also finds time to read and listen to music.

Mr. Francis M. Lamoureux received his B.A. and M.A., from the American International College and a Master of Natural Science degree from Worcester Polytechnical Institute. Mr. Lamoureux teaches chemistry and is in charge of the distribution of locker keys. He enjoys skiing, camping, and music.

Mr. Edward M. Lundrigan has completed his first year at Classical teaching biology. He received his B.S. from St. Michael's College, Vermont, and M.Ed. from Our Lady of the Elms College. Outside of school Mr. Lundrigan teaches hunting, fishing, and conservation for a sportsmen's club. He also belongs to charitable organizations.

Mr. James T. O'Donnell teaches BSCS biology. He is also an adviser to the Biology Club and Student Activities Committee. Mr. O'Donnell received his B.S. at Holy Cross, M.S. at the University of Massachusetts, M.S. at Syracuse University, and also attended Cornell University, Boston University, Tufts College, and Smith College. He enjoys traveling and reading.

Mrs. Beulah S. Towne teaches chemistry and biology. She received her A.B. and M.S. from Middlebury College. She has also attended the University of Vermont, Bowdoin, and Thiel College. Mrs. Towne is adviser to the Class of '67.

Mr. Andrew Scibelli has just completed his first year at Classical. Mr. Scibelli received his B.A. from St. Anselm's College and M.Ed. at the State College at Boston. He teaches biology and is the cross country coach at Classical. As a pastime, Mr. Scibelli enjoys golfing.

Mr. Jerome P. Shea received his A.B. at St. Anselm's College and his M.Ed. at Westfield State College. He teaches biology.

Never a more talented

Cynthia Raison gets a nod of approval from Mr. Nai for her painting which she calls "Kitty."

Adviser to the Art Club, Mr. Joseph Nai instructs classes of Art I, Art II, Art III, and Art IV. Mr. Nai is a graduate of New York University, has a masters degree from Bridgewater State, and has attended the Parson School of Design. His hobby interests are sculpture and old clocks.

Mr. Alovís directs the attention of Art Club member Kathy Malfas to a point of interest in an art book.

Senior and junior high school teacher, Mr. Alfred A. Alovís teaches art at the tenth grade level. He is a graduate of Westfield State College. Outside of school, he enjoys outdoor activities such as hiking and camping, and includes model airplanes in his hobbies.

bunch of "kids."

One of the many familiar scenes in the band room is Mr. O'Keeffe with an instrument in his hands. Mr. Vincent O'Keeffe is a graduate of Boston University and Columbia University. He conducts the Classical Band, Orchestra, Dance Band, and the Brass Choir. Mr. O'Keeffe also teaches music in Classical Junior High. His interests include music and sportcars.

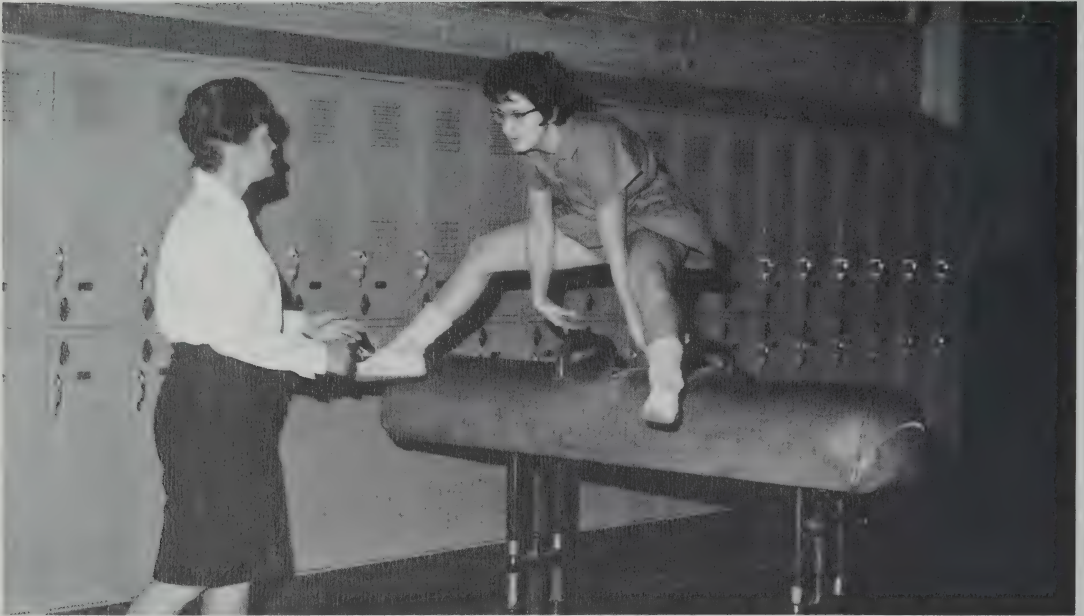

Mr. O'Keeffe is giving some helpful pointers to Al Noble and Ted Levine.

Miss Yuro goes over a few notes with choir members Adrienne Cooke and Paul Radtke.

Miss Virginia Yuro might be seen on any given school day energetically conducting one of the several musical groups. At Classical, she is in charge of the girls' chorus, the boys' chorus, the choir, and the Madrigal singers. This year she is also instructing a theory and harmony class. She is also co-director of Carousel here at Classical, and is active outside of school in musical organizations. She received her SFAA from Boston University and did her graduate work at the Hartt College of Music at the University of Hartford.

Physical fitness prepares youth

Learning how to use apparatus properly takes a lot of practice. Mrs. Desrochers is helping Elaine Paquet to improve her form while doing the straddle vault over the horse.

Mrs. Audrey Desrochers is a graduate of Sargent College of Boston University. Besides teaching physical education, she also advises GAA, the Student Leaders, and the Cheerleaders.

Miss Mary-Jane Niedeck, physical education teacher, is helping Cheryl Reiter perform a handstand on the uneven parallel bars. Miss Niedeck advises GAA, the Student Leaders, and the Cheerleaders. She received her B.S. at the University of Massachusetts, and also attended Russell Sage College. She enjoys skiing, swimming, and a newly acquired skill in surfing.

for a vigorous life.

Every member of a team is outfitted with the correct size and type of gear. Mr. Hart has Kim Thompson try on his football equipment.

Mr. Philip Hart teaches boys the fundamental principles of physical fitness and good sportsmanship in his gym classes, and has an outstanding record as coach of the football and basketball teams. "Coach Hart" received his bachelor's and master's degrees from American International College.

Mr. Donald Vaughan discusses soccer with Ron Jermakian. He stimulates his gym classes with a vigorous workout and also coaches the soccer, track, and senior basketball teams. Although behind-the-wheel driving is no longer offered at Classical, "Coach Vaughan" instructs junior boys in the "Rules of the road" in the driver-ed course impressing upon them the necessity of courteous and safe driving habits. Mr. Vaughan is a graduate of Springfield College.

Classical students keep

The maintenance department of Classical High School, which numbers eight custodians and three matrons, starts the school year off early with a general cleanup. The custodians' duties range from replacing lights and repairing desks to getting the furnace to function. The matrons are kept busy with dusting and removing fingerprints. Thanks to our maintenance department, Classical is kept clean and in proper working order.

One of the many duties of our custodians is to empty our lunchroom barrels. Bob Borgatti and Patsy Scibelli do this expertly.

these people busy!

Our lunchroom staff starts the day early with the preparation of lunches for the senior and junior high schools. The ladies have become experts in making leftovers into tempting meals. These ladies are Dorothy Shippee, Mary O'Connor, Pauline Roberts, Josephine Saracino, Mabelle La Fleur, Dora Rickson, and Ada Reel.

The cashiers are experts in the fast check out department. Here Susan Greenberg demonstrates her talents to Mr. Hart.

Superstitious or curious? Whichever, who can blame senior Deborah Mango and Miss Laramée (or did you think she was a student, too?) for stopping to inspect the ornate Fortune Cookie Tree made by the Art Club.

These six vivacious young cheerleaders graced our gymnasium with their presence during the junior class sponsored volleyball game between juniors and members of the faculty. With their spirited cheering and colorful routines, they were instrumental in achieving the faculty victory. By day, they are our own teachers, Miss Patricia Hart, student teacher Miss Silverman, Miss Mary-Jane Niedeck, Miss Erlene Laramée, Miss Teresa Regina, and Miss Mary McCarthy.

Members of the faculty bowling team take time out to rest between strikes. Standing are Mr. Jermakian and Mr. Lussier. Mr. Meder and Mr. Montagna take it easy on the bench.

outside the classroom

Mr. Scibelli demonstrates his skill at volleyball during the faculty and junior volleyball game. In fact, all the teachers showed a lot of vim and vigor. Playing the rear positions from foreground are Mr. Lussier, Mr. Lamoureux, and Mr. Laude. In the front row are Mr. Szetela and Mr. Guzowski.

Mr. Lussier, member of the bowling team, watches anxiously as his ball rolls down the alley.

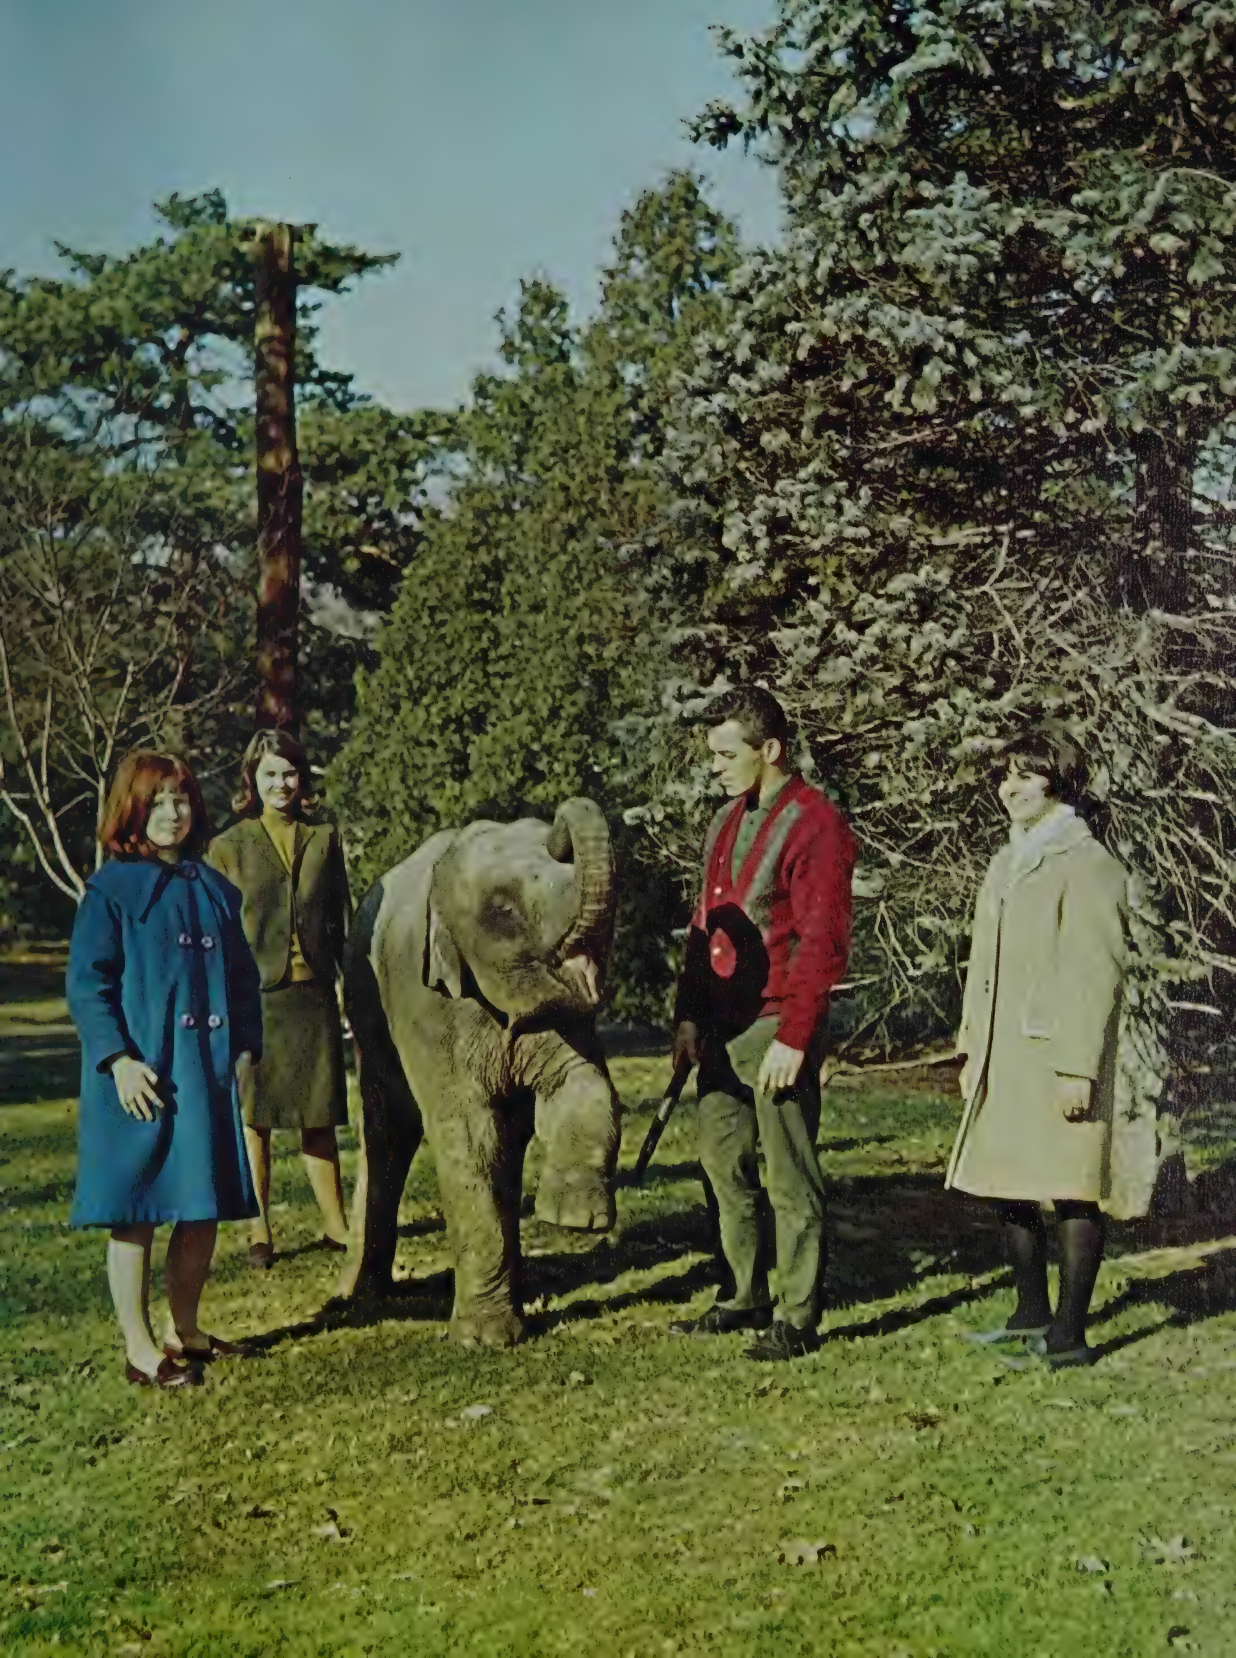

Mr. Laude and Mr. Guzowski jump simultaneously to volley the ball back to the juniors. This volleyball game brought forth tremendous enthusiasm from both the faculty and junior players.

MORGANETTA

Morganetta, the baby elephant at the Forest Park Zoo, seems delighted to show off her many tricks at the drop of a hat. Named for Morgan D. O'Connell, a Springfield promoter of youth, sports and recreation, the two-year old pachyderm was born in Bangkok, Thailand. Examining the progress of the growing animal, which should be eight to nine feet tall and weigh 8000 pounds by 1973, are Classical students Donna Davis, Joan Heyman, Roberta Feldman, and Morganetta's trainer Charles Coleman.

The advisers and officers have collaborated

Having the opportunity to act as adviser to the class of 1967 has been a source of both pleasure and pride for me. My very best wishes go to each of you for health, happiness and good fortune in whatever you choose to do during the years to come.

William R. Young

MESSAGE TO SENIORS

I envy you. I think it would be so great to go to college today! There is so much more to learn. So many answers have been found to the questions that were raised in my day. I'd like to learn these answers. There are so many faster and more accurate ways of doing things. I would like to become proficient in these methods. I'd like to be part of this new scene, raising new questions, finding more answers, equipped as you will be, encouraged, and aided financially to go on learning as long as you have the capacity to learn and grow and add to man's knowledge. I envy you.

Beulah Towne

If ever leaders are committed to a dynamic and sometimes awesome future, they are yours. Fortunately, however, you have seen cultivated at Classical qualities of leadership that make up a very desirable and effective point of view. Certainly, in the discipline of your daily work you have been inspired by the selflessness and modesty, the dedication to justice, the love of beauty and truth, the respect for order, and the seriousness of purpose balanced by delight of fun and laughter of your friends and leaders. You have seen grow around you, and perhaps within you, an amazing power to adjust not only to the changing fact of academic life but also to what for some would be insurmountable frustration. These and more are the strengths we hope you will continue to cultivate. This is the point of view that will delight and nourish those whom you lead . . . and those whom you leave behind.

MR. WILLIAM YOUNG

To the Class of 1967:

If you have come to appreciate the beauty of "simple" things to discover the joy in the search for truth to tolerate the opinions of others and to respect their right to disagree with you to "know yourself" a little bit better to realize that there is always "time" for courtesy — for kindness — for love of fellow man to desire to give to others what you have received then your years at Classical have been well spent, and it is with much love and pride and hope that we send you forth to do credit to yourself — to your parents — to your school — to your community — to your nation — and to your God.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As we prepare to leave Classical, the question comes to mind, "What does our high school education really mean?" To a few it will be the end of all formal education. Others are prepared to continue their education in colleges and universities. Some of the facts and ideas about people and the natural world will remain with us for the rest of our lives. However, one salient fact is that we have been given a thorough indoctrination in good citizenship in a growing and changing world. We came here as shy freshmen on the threshold of becoming young adults. Guided by our principal and faculty we learned to handle numerous challenging problems, and gradually we became more capable of solving them on our own initiative.

Those of us who represented our school on various athletic teams have learned how to lose as well as win. Even more important, we learned to work as a member of a team. Through extra-curricular activities, we shared many interests and pleasures, but along with the benefits came the concomitant responsibilities from completing different projects.

Many members of the class rose to their tasks and demonstrated qualities of leadership early in high school. Others followed and assumed greater responsibilities, as time went on. I am confident that all of us will continue through life growing in learning, giving more of ourselves, and assuming our proper roles as adult citizens of our respective communities, states, and nation. We have been well prepared. We shall strive always towards making this a better world in which to live.

I am honored to have served as your president. I wish all of you success in life, and I know that we shall forever cherish the memories of our years at Classical High School.

The class of '67 will recall

Each fall those seniors who have maintained a 3.5 average are formally inducted into the National Honor Society. On November 9, nineteen seniors had obtained this average, raising the number of members from eleven to thirty. Taking the Honor Society oath are (front row) Donna Zerwitz, Elaine Winkler, Carolyn Whiting, Beatrice Shell, Cheryl McDowell, Martha Lepow, Joyce Heroux, Hazel Hanley, Janice Gallup, Donna Davis, Susan Cohn, Deanne Bogan, and (back row) Irving Walker, Kenneth Locklin, Marvin Kushnet, Herbert Greenspan, Bruce Friedman, Stephen Durgin, and Robert Borek.

The class of '67 showed its generous spirit in organizing a drive for servicemen stationed in Viet Nam. The Viet Nam drive began with two assemblies at which servicemen spoke on the needs of the men in Viet Nam and of their own experiences there. On the designated day, Classical students produced canned foods, books, magazines, toilet articles, and other necessary items for the servicemen. Those students who gave received tags which read, "I gave to our boys in Viet Nam — did you?" Sandy Halperin and James Smith, co-chairmen of the drive, and Janice Peacor, Janice Gallup, Sharon Wolfe, Alfredo Olmstead and Susan Widland express their gratification over the students' contributions.

"Moonlight and Roses" set the scene for the junior prom, held on May 14, 1966 at the Schine Inn. Students enjoyed an evening of dancing and listening to the music of Ronnie Drum's Orchestra. The highlight of the evening came as Ann-Susan Megaw was crowned queen. Ann-Susan is surrounded by her court, Cheryl Boone, Bonnie Goddless, Randi Novak, and Norma Carlson.

Seniors Scott Levine, Nicholas Maklary (captain), Eugene Fisher, and Kenneth Locklin with their enthusiastic fans formed a strong As Schools Match Wits team, which won its first two games and proved itself to be a good match for Tantasqua. Although defeated by Tantasqua in a hard fought battle, the team looked forward to its second session.

The Class of 1968 has contributed

Through their untiring efforts and excellent planning, the junior class advisers Mr. Daniel Meder, Miss Patricia Hart, Mr. Armen Jermakian, and Miss Erline Laramée have made this a banner year for the class of 1968.

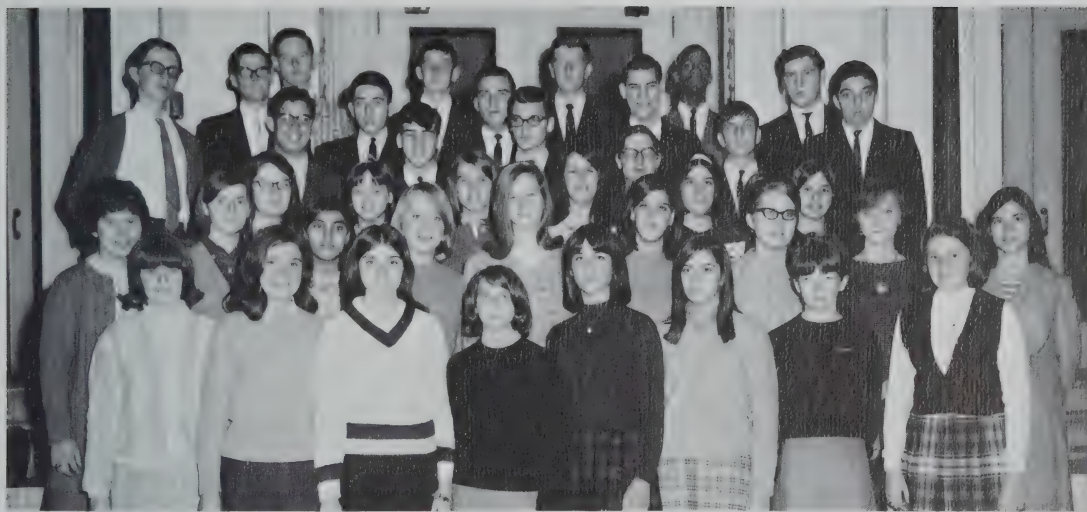

The Class of '68 has been contributing its part in upholding the fine tradition of Classical. Juniors have played an important role in the various clubs at Classical and have demonstrated talent in the Madrigal and Choir, the various instrumental groups in the school and Carousel. Juniors have been members on the Blue and White, the Classical Recorder, and Scribe Staffs. The Classical cheerleaders, composed of junior and senior girls, inspired Classical athletes, many of whom were juniors, to play their hardest. Many juniors had a part in the Holiday-Semi-Formal dance and the junior prom, making them both a great success. The Class of 1968 is eagerly anticipating the coming senior year.

Junior class officers, vice president Elizabeth Stellman, treasurer Kathryn Slora, president Mark Powell, secretary Hope Moser, and Member-at-large Eileen Smith are making an active year highlighted by activity.

GIRLS' PATROL HOME ROOM

To qualify for the Girls' Patrol, girls at the end of their freshman year with a good scholastic record, good attendance record, and a recommendation from all their teachers are selected to serve on the junior girls' patrol. These qualified juniors are (front row) Diane Downie, Dara Harris, Lynn Jurkowski, Nancy Grimaldi, Joan DiSanti; (second row) Karen Humphrey, Christine Gross, Brenda LaMasney, and Barbara Fichman.

"The idea to have a cookie sale

One of the first duties facing the freshman class officers, Secretary Carla Van West, Treasurer Rachel Skvirsky, President Kevin Fay, Vice-President Carol Lane and Member-at-Large Joan Schaeffer, was to formulate plans for their first year at Classical.

The school population increases every year as one can see by looking at the freshmen classes. This class is one of the largest and the honor roll is larger still. They seem to fit into the tradition of Classical High School very well and are great sports enthusiasts. They have added to the list of good athletes and scholars already in Classical High School. Their ideas for class activities are refreshing and different. They are determined to make their class be remembered within the walls of Classical High School. The class of '69 is looking forward to becoming juniors and setting a good example for the next incoming class.

Freshman advisers, Mr. Leclair, Mr. Stevens, Mrs. Bale, and Miss McCarthy, discuss plans for activities submitted by freshman class officers.

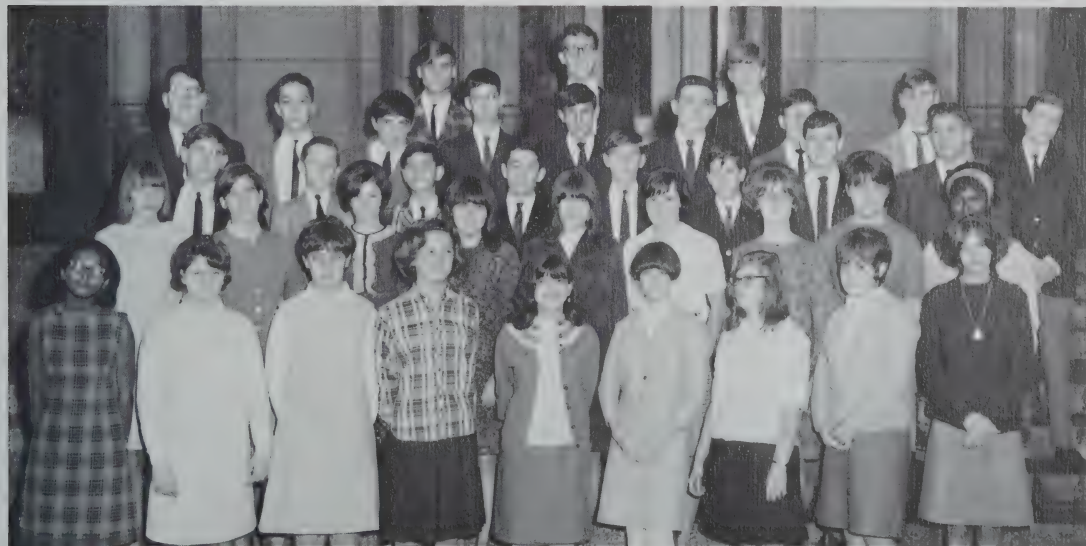

is the best one yet."

Alumni return to renew acquaintances and

ALUMNI TEA

On December 22, 1966, the National Honor Society held its annual Alumni Tea. Alumni from many classes, especially the Class of 1966 returned to share their experiences with former teachers and friends. Classical students talked with the alumni and seniors asked questions relating to the colleges they were interested in.

James McCurry, James Carithers, Mark Mackler, and Marlene Resnick, of Boston College, Clarke University, Boston University, and Elmira College respectively, are speaking to seniors Leona Stricker and Doreen Scott about college life.

Elaine Winkler, a member of the Honor Society, serves refreshments to Mrs. Margaret Ramos, senior counselor, Dennis Guerri of Westfield State College, and Nancy Perella of the University of Miami, both members of the Class of 1966.

Mr. Montagna enjoys conversation with alumni Melody Eaton, who attends Ottawa College, George Farella, Brown University, and Ivey Cooley, Oberlin College. They are discussing a recent issue of The Recorder. The Alumni Tea was a rewarding experience for both the alumni who renewed old acquaintances and the seniors who learned about college life.

SPRINGFIELD ARMORY

The Springfield Armory, founded in 1794 by Congress, has long played an integral part in our Nation's history. The vast military complex has supplied various weapons for nearly all of our armed conflicts (including the famous "Springfield Rifle," first manufactured in 1873). It was this armory which inspired Longfellow to write "The Arsenal at Springfield." Having served as a practice ground for Classical gym classes and band for many years, the Armory received due recognition in 1964 when it was registered as a National Historic Landmark. Although the Department of Defense has scheduled a complete shut down by April, 1968, the vacated plant will serve as part of Springfield's expansion plans. Discussing the Armory's impressive history are Classical students Lee Geisel, Joan Heyman, Donna Davis, Thomas Howard and Roberta Feldman.

records an eventful year.

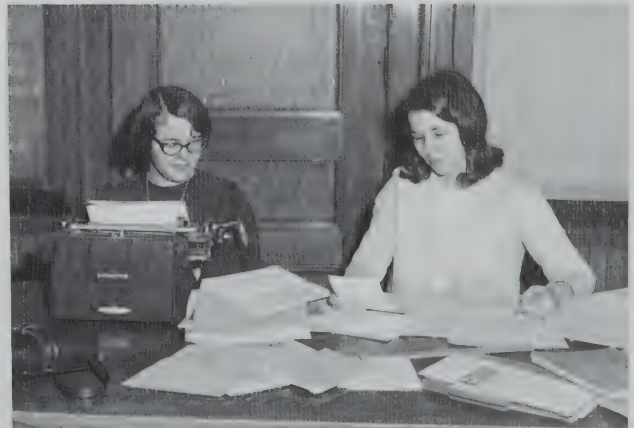

The senior section is one of the highlights of the Blue and White. A tremendous amount of time and effort goes into every page. Picture appointments are made from June to October for each senior at the end of his junior year. After the student selects his favorite picture, he turns it in to the senior section editors with his completed questionnaire which he received in September. When all the write-ups and pictures are ready, they are laid out, checked, and then sent to the printer. Pamela Meyers and Donna Davis, our senior section editors, are clearing write-ups with very pleased seniors.

One of the most tedious duties of a Blue and White staff member is to make absolutely sure that each person is identified in a picture and his name is spelled correctly. During the months of September, October, and November, an exasperated Blue and White member can usually be heard saying . . . "stay in your places and please write your name correctly and legibly in the appropriate column, please." But it seems that Marcia Cutler is an exception for she good naturedly says, "please."

Before any section of the yearbook is completed, all copy must be proofread, layouts must be checked by the editor Thomas Howard and the adviser Miss Boylan. Pictures must be properly identified and the entire page must look attractive and well planned. Diane Lessard diligently types some copy as Marcia Cutler checks the identification of the pictures in the section assigned to her.

One division of the business staff is the circulation department. After the Blue and White homeroom agents collect money from the students for their orders, they bring the money to the circulation department heads. Paul Case and Brigid Walker are giving Jim Carabetta their sales for the day. The circulation department is also responsible for seeing that each student who has purchased his yearbook receives his 1967 copy of the Blue and White.

The advertising staff of the Blue and White is an essential part of the business department, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Porter, the able business adviser. By soliciting ads from the various stores and corporations, the profit is used to defray the cost of the book. Those who have served on the advertising staff this year are Elizabeth Kenyon, Joanne Michonski, Elizabeth Fransen, Ann Bonemery, Lynn Mackler, Timothy Lee and William Edwards.

The Scribe, the Classical literary magazine, gives some talented students a chance to display their creative writing abilities. The magazine contains many witty as well as mature poems, essays, and short stories written by the students who get a "heaven sent inspiration." The Scribe staff are members of Miss Mills' 11th English class. All the staff members work together in selecting the chefs-d'oeuvres deposited in the Scribe box in order to publish the magazine early in the spring.

Examining an issue of Scribe are Denise Falbo, Amy Kligerman, Henry Casten, Elaine Radwanski, Henry Greene, John Greaney, Leslie Garson, Michael Goldman, Hillary Charney, and Elizabeth Stellman.

HANDBOOK

Every freshman upon entrance to Classical in September is presented with the Classical Handbook to help guide and to acquaint him with the customs and rules of the school. The Handbook, prepared under the direction of Mrs. Morrill, includes descriptions of the Classical organizations, sections relating to the school policies, cheers for the athletic games and rallies, and floor plans of Classical High School. The Handbook staff includes Shira Cohen, Paulette Nichols, Nancy Grimaldi and Barbara Fichman.

The senior members of the Recorder staff are Thomas Mayo, Brian Turner, Deborah Lee, Monroe Benson, Donna Zerwitz, Kathleen Coleman, Ellen Birnbaum, William Frye, Susan Widland, Marilyn Newman, Deanne Bogan, Cheryl Newman, Judith Goldman, Shoshana Bacon, Jane Luce, and Carolyn Whiting.

The senior staff of the Recorder is responsible for the production of each issue of the newspaper, which appears monthly from September to June. The page editors make assignments, design page lay-outs, and do much of the writing that appears in the Recorder, assisted by the editor-in-chief, whose job it is to supervise the technical aspect of the paper. The managing editor is ultimately responsible for all aspects of the paper. The senior staff also includes a photographer and a business staff.

Classical's news beat.

The junior staff is indispensable to the Recorder. Their responsibilities include news-gathering, much of the copy writing and all the soliciting of advertisements. Throughout the year, the juniors receive from the literary adviser instruction in journalism, which they combine with practical experience. Roberta Bale, Eric Stahl, Michael Goldman, and Karen Ruddeforth are busy preparing copy.

The Classical Recorder is now in its eightieth year of publication, the first having appeared in 1887. Old Recorders are always interesting to members of the staff. Bonnie Baird, William Caldwell, and Denise Falbo are looking over one of the bound editions of the Recorder.

In their senior year the juniors will assume jobs currently held by seniors, and these juniors in turn will be followed by a new group of juniors who will also staff the Recorder. Elizabeth Stellman, Eileen Cooley and Sherry-Lee Burrell are checking advertisements. Albert Pryor and Henry Green are preparing news copy.

The Classical High Band

One of the dashing attractions at football games has been our majorettes and marching band. Majorettes: Deborah Haas, Carole Kvarnstrom, Cheryl Boone, Pamela Meyers, Patricia Austin, Bonnie Baird, and Kathleen Plourd. First Row: Director, Mr. Vincent O'Keeffe, Thalia Cokkinias, David Kahn, Sheila Bewsee, Gordon Clark, Larry Nirenberg, Frederick Daly, Michael Vlahotis, Kaye Thomas, Eugene Fisher, Thomas Howard. Second Row: Leon Thiem, Stuart Hersh, Jeffrey Anton, Albert Noble, Robert Borek, Robert Quinton, Ralph Russomando, David Rothenberg, Ted Parker, Frank Bill, Kenneth Golash. Third Row: Maureen McCarthy, Cynthia Ciak, Jean Williams, Phillip Mazzie, Candice Early, William Caldwell, David Riffelmacher, Daniel Aranow, Robert Levine, James O'Connor, Joyce Riley. Fourth Row: Jaurez Cousin, Robert Child, Joseph Kaye, Elizabeth Titus, Marcia Nickerson, Patricia Jenkins, Donna Maroney, Karen Ruddeforth, Alan Soloman, Walter Mayo, Fifth Row: Alan Kimball, Raymond Stevens, Daniel Bembenek, Peter DuBiel, Alan Dunham, Glen Ross, Ronald Harrell, Richard Judd, Kenneth Blair, Alan Okun.

Swinging out their rag-time tunes, the dixie-land band is a common sight at rallies. Robert Borek, Albert Noble, Frederick Daly, Stuart Shapiro and Peter DuBiel.

From the rhythms of the dixieland band at the first pep rally to the last strains of "Pomp and Circumstances" by the combined chorus and band at graduation, music has played an integral part in the growth of both spirit and culture at Classical High School.

The year began in the auditorium with our five-piece dixieland band swinging out their rag-time tunes to the delight of students eager for the football season to begin. This enthusiastic group also played for many basketball games at the Field House later on in the year.

Out on the field, our marching band, clad in their traditional blue and white uniforms further aroused spirit with their clever routines at half-time and their famous "aro-o-oga" cheer. Weeks of drilling each maneuver paid off as the band marched in the Columbus Day Parade and received the largest number of points obtained for their performance.

With the end of the marching season, the group began work on their concert band program of numbers to be presented at Kiley Junior High School for the annual Band Spring Concert. The officers of the band include Theodore Levine, president, Albert Noble, vice-president, Thalia Cokkinias, secretary, and Joseph Kaye, treasurer.

The Classical High School Orchestra has had a very exciting year. This has been due, in part, to the fact that membership has increased by one-third, bringing the total number of participants to thirty-six. For the first time in many years, the orchestra has presented concerts outside of school. The first one took place early in the fall at Kiley Junior High School where the members were enthusiastically received by the students there. Solos were performed by both Tristan Honsinger and Ted Levine. The orchestra also participated in the Christmas Concert and the annual Spring Concert in April.

Another group which is active in school functions is the dance band. Made up of eighteen talented musicians, this group is best known for its participation in the annual production of "Carousel," when it serves as a backup for vocalists and presents many solo numbers also. The dance band takes part in many school assemblies also, and performs at the annual Band Spring Concert at Kiley Junior High School.

Newly formed this year is a group called the "Swingphonics," which is made up of the orchestra and the dance band. The combination of the dance band "beat" and the flowing melody of the strings section served to delight many an audience throughout the year.

One of the most slective musical groups at Classical, the dance band spends many hours rehearsing in the auditorium. Members include: Director, Mr. O'Keeffe, Daniel Dobeck, Frederick Daly, Herbert Greenspan, Robert Borek, John Haggerty, Walter Mayo,

Lee Sheldon, Theodore Levine, Thomas Mayo, Gail Newsome, Leon Thiem, Jeffery Anton, William Gonet, Albert Noble, Ralph Russomando, Michael Greenspan, and Raymond Stevens. (Not included in picture: Peter Dubiel)

The famed and versatile Madrigal Singers delighted many an audience throughout the year. Gregory Bullen, Joan Heyman, Roberta Scougall, Janice Peacor, Cheryl Boone, William Simons, John Kramer, director, Miss Virginia Yuro, Gregory Gilfoil, Ernest Papadoulis, Ellen Vickers, Arlene Forastiere, Susan Finch, Susan Golash, Wesley Garner, Lee Geisel, Beverly Bridgeman, Hazel Hanley, Billie Witman, Diane Brown, Mark Leckert, Craig Dinnie.

"Watch your diction!" and "keep that pitch up!" are two phrases familiar to the students who take part in one of the four vocal groups present at Classical High School. Under the able direction of Miss Virginia Yuro, the Girls' Chorus, the Boys' Chorus, Choir and the Madrigal Singers have all enjoyed great success. Perhaps the first occasion on which one of these groups performed was the Thanksgiving Day Assembly when the joyous strains of holiday songs by the mixed choir streamed down from the balcony to the appreciative audience below. One of the main attractions of the year was the Christmas Concert in December. All four of the vocal groups performed a varied program of festive music. A highlight of the evening came with the Choir's rendition of "Alleluia." The Madrigal Singers were fortunate enough to be chosen to sing in Boston for the Music Educator's National Conference in February. Madrigal also performed for many assemblies and for several civic groups throughout the city. In June they presented their fine Formal Concert at the Museum of Fine Arts and they delighted an appreciative audience. The music season concluded with the annual spring concert presented in our own auditorium in which all the vocal groups participated.

The Executive Board of PTSA works diligently all year. Mr. Peterson, Mr. Skivirsky, Mrs. Aldrich, Mr. Gross, Mr. Tuller, Mrs. Bannon, Mr. Montagna, and Mrs. Struckenbruck discuss the agenda before a meeting.

is the largest in the state.

The Parent Teacher Student Association at Classical was the first of its kind in the country. By bringing together the parents, teachers, and students, the PTSA hopes to create a better harmony among these groups. One function of the PTSA is raising money for scholarships for worthy Classical students. Consequently, many of the activities sponsored by the PTSA center around raising funds for this worthy cause. One activity sponsored by the PTSA is Open House. During this time, parents follow the same schedule which their child follows during a typical day at Classical. The PTSA also sponsors the Spring Concert in which many talented music groups from Classical are featured. The proceeds go to the scholarship funds. Another important activity of PTSA is Activities Night, at which time incoming students and their parents are given the opportunity of learning something about Classical's extra-curricular activities. Besides these activities, the PTSA also holds regular meetings. The Classical High School is still the largest in the country.

The PTSA sponsored a fashion show to raise money for scholarships. Pretty Susan Finch models a suede outfit.

One annual activity of PTSA is open house at Classical High. Mrs. Towne prepares to demonstrate the use of the triple beam balance to a group of interested parents.

BOY'S PATROL

The Boys' Patrol under the supervision of Mr. Bresnahan and the leadership of Captain Michael Fay, Assistant Captain Gary Gaspar, and Lieutenants Greg Bullen, Alan Klibanoff, and Peter Dubiel, help preserve order in the halls before school and between periods. Their other duties include keeping the lunchroom neat, opening lockers for students who have misplaced their keys, and delivering messages and supplies for the office. A boy interested in joining the Patrol must first meet the approval of his teachers and finally must be voted in by members of the Patrol itself. Once a boy is elected to the Patrol, he finds a rewarding experience in assisting and carrying on school activities.

Upon entering Classical, a visitor is greeted by the friendly welcoming smile of a girls' patrol member performing her duties. Miriam Gross sits at the reception desk ready to serve visitors.

GIRL'S PATROL

Honesty, integrity, responsibility, and scholastic achievement are just a few of the many requirements a girl must possess in order to be part of the 227 family called Girls' Patrol. This organization, led by Captain Terri Romano, Clerk Debbie Stuart, Lieutenants Alison Smith and Janice Gallup and adviser Miss Dickerman, plays a vital part in the life of Classical High School by helping to maintain order and to promote the school program. Each girl on the patrol has been recommended by all her teachers and has been voted upon by members. A member of the patrol has unlimited duties. She must counter-sign passes, keep order in the girls' room, cafeteria, and halls, aid as a receptionist at the information desk in the front hall, and assist in the office and counselor's office. However, the duties of a member of Girls' Patrol do not terminate within the walls of Classical. The girls assist after school, ushering at various school functions.

As one of the daily services of the Boys' Patrol, Captain Mike Fay opens Tom Mayo's locker with the master key.

The origin of the club was acted out by Cheryl McDowell at the first meeting of Pierides this year. This original skit was written by Linda Wright and Cheryl McDowell.

PIERIDES

To promote interest in the arts, Pierides, the girls' literary society aims to fulfill "the burning desire to further one's knowledge of literary matters." The society, with President Cheryl McDowell, Vice-president Carolyn Whiting, Secretary Joanne Montagna, Treasurer Doreen Scott, and adviser Miss Sauer, conducted a literary contest open to all Classical students. At the first meeting the officers presented an original skit written by Linda Wright and Cheryl McDowell. One of the many guest speakers this year was Miss McCormick who discussed Spanish Art and Culture. Poetry readings by club members, museum trips and viewing a Shakespearean play at Stratford, Connecticut have also been some of the activities of engaged in by the Pierides' members.

Preparing refreshments is an enjoyable task for all involved. Helping Miss Sauer (center) are Cheryl McDowell, Cheryl Newman, Sue Golash and Cindy Ciak.

SENATE

Article I of the 1966-1967 Senate Constitution states that the purpose of the Senate is "to assist in the preparation of responsible citizens able to do unbiased thinking; the Senate seeks to provide: An atmosphere of inquiry and challenge, and an understanding of the purposes and techniques of formal debating . . ."

The first semester officers of the Senate were President Nick Maklary, Vice-president John Greaney, Clerk Henry Green, Treasurer Thomas Kuczmarski. The second semester officers were President Nick Maklary, Vice-president

Alfredo Olmstead, Clerk Thomas Kuczmarski, and Treasurer Albert Pryor.

The Senate is a debating club; most sessions are run according to parliamentary procedure. This year the group opened membership to girls. During the school year the Senate sent seventeen delegates to the West Springfield Congress and four delegates to the twenty-seventh A.I.C. Congress. The Senate presented its Annual Senate Tablet Debate to the school May 17.

Student Government meets the Greg Bullen starts off the annual Student Treasury drive by selling the first ticket to the president of the senior class, James Smith.

The Student Government is responsible for the operation and counting of ballots in class elections. With a growing enrollment, the counting of ballots becomes a bigger responsibility. In November, Student Government held elections for the freshman class officers. Junior members of Student Government, Larry Uman and George Fleishner, give needed assistance to Barbara Winterton who is attempting to put her ballot in the already overflowing ballot box.

During the Christmas vacation, Student Government held its sixth annual gala event, the Holiday Dance, at the elegant Elk's Lodge. The dance committee organized an enjoyable evening long to be remembered by those who attended. All Student Government representatives participated in this major event, headed by chairman Angelo Sifakes. The "crowning" highlight of the evening was the selection of the Holiday Dance queen. Each class had nominated two queen candidates, and the final balloting was done by the Student Government representatives. As all the nervous candidates waited for that "big moment" Greg Bullen, president of Student Government, opened the envelope containing the queen's name. Bonnie Goodless was chosen queen and the members of her court were Patricia Colapietro, Elizabeth Stellman, Albina Wrona, Denise Dolvin, and Randi Tillman.

challenge of the school and the community

On February 3, throngs of students converged on the Bulldog Bargain Basement, the school store, to buy tickets for the big Classical-Cathedral game. Selling tickets to Classicalities for the basketball game are Ellen Vickers, Cheryl Boone, Debrah Lee, and Eileen Smith. The game was a "sell-out," all 800 tickets were sold.

Many problems confronted the Student Government this year. The first major project of the year was the proposed amendment to the constitution that class dues or S.T. not be the requirement for voting in class elections. The Student Government held a special assembly before the freshmen class elections to explain the amendment to the entire student body. Members of Student Government gave "pros" and "cons" on the subject. At first, the amendment seemed certain to pass; however, the student body rejected the proposal by an overwhelming majority. Members of the organization have also been concerned with the lack of courtesy in the halls and the "mess" in the cafeteria. They also established an ad hoc committee to study the problem relating to the pressures which the students are subjected to during the mid-year and final exam periods. The Student Government, along with local newspapers, the City Council, and the School Committee, has been seeking a solution to the problem of teenage recreation in the metropolitan Springfield area. The organization sent a representative, George Bullen, to meetings of the School Committee when the problem was on the agenda. Student Government has also revamped the procedure for the Student-of-the-Month elections in order to make the ballot more meaningful. As in years past, the Bulldog Bargain Basement, the school store, has been manned by a committee under the advisership of Mr. Daniel Meder, and counting among its members Monroe Benson, chairman, John Gurvitch, Eileen Smith, Hope Moser, Judy Goldman, Kathy Slora, George Fleishner, Debra Lee. Under the guidance of Mrs. Barbara Bowen, the work of Student Government has run as smoothly as that of a computer. Miss Almeda King has guided all class elections as well as the Student-of-the-Month elections. To keep the Classical student body informed of the "goings on" in Student Government, the Activities Committee held information assemblies as well as sending fliers to the homerooms. The Student Government also gave several deserving seniors scholarships at the end of the year.

Busy teachers at Classical

STAGE CREW

Under the management of Mr. Pare the stage crew operates at assemblies, at the school show, Carousel, and at PTSA meetings. They operate the lights, work the curtains, and change the scenery whenever their assistance is required. The scenery for Carousel is made almost entirely by the members of the crew. Recently Joe Dziedzic designed and installed a communications system from behind the stage to the balcony for use during Carousel. Working on scenery for Carousel are Joseph Dziedzic, Paul Case, Timothy Wells, Keff Lagoditz, Frank Bill, Edward Hayes, Daniel Aranow, Albert Pryor, and George Young.

AVA

The AVA though closely associated with the stage crew provides a special service to the school. The boys under the management of Mr. Pare are responsible for carrying and operating projectors for teachers. Whenever the boys have a free period they are either operating or working on a projector which has been damaged. Joseph Dziedzic and Sanderson Combs are operating a projector at one of the assemblies.

CHEM LAB AIDES

Both Mrs. Towne and Mr. Lamoureux have their own chem lab aides. These boys and girls put away chemicals, wash test tubes and other equipment, and mix solutions for the busy teachers for use during experiments in Chemistry classes. Boys and girls whom the Chemistry teachers feel have sufficient knowledge and "know-how" around the laboratory are selected each year.

appreciate student help.

At beginning of year Miss Brown instructs Stephen Finson, Lora Evenson, Roberta Hurwitz, Celeste Budd, Kathy Kurpaska, Kathy Malfas, Joyce Yemenijian, and Donald Peters in library procedures.

Checking the files for delinquent books are Thomasin Ferguson, Kathy Cruse, Barbara Johnson, Paula Kent, Linda Lovell, Joey Klibanoff, Lynn Derosier, Leslie Corbett, and Pauline Rogers.

LIBRARY AIDES

The library aides under the direction of Miss Brown assist in the operation and care of the library. The students who are hand picked by Miss Brown help before school in issuing passes for study periods, and in locating library materials for both students and teachers. Their other duties include putting books in order on the shelves, straightening up the library, "chasing down" students who have not returned their books on time, and assisting Miss Brown in any job which requires their help. Classical, which has one of the finest school libraries in the country, owes much of its success to Miss Brown and her library aides.

Ready to begin the day's work are Nancy Gallagher, Iris Zarefsky, Christine Fiorentino, Christine Bannon, Gwendolyn Jacobs, Candace Early, Barbara Lak, and Barbara Stellato.

Library aides Leslie Garson, Pamela Tuckey, Nancy Vagnini, Joan Lesser, Pamela Sheldon, Phyllis Green, Michelle St. Jean, and Carolyn Brassard are pleased with their set up.

FUTURE TEACHERS' CLUB

The Future Teachers' Club is an active and purposeful organization that familiarizes interested students with the many aspects of education. Advisers Miss Morris and Miss Corcoran, along with officers and members of the club, try to promote a sincere interest and enthusiasm for the teaching profession. Every first Wednesday of the month, the Future Teachers' Club meet to discuss and learn about the field of study they would like to pursue. Meetings include guest speakers that provide the students with first hand knowledge of the educational requirements and of the rewards of teaching. There are also films and various field trips. A service project has been started to aid faculty members and to acquaint the students with the duties they will meet in the future.

FUTURE NURSES' CLUB

The Future Nurses' Club, under the direction of Miss Laramée, aims to expose girls to the vocation of nursing as a future career. The members of the club are led by their officers who are President Paula Hurwitz, Vice-President Kathy Slora, Secretary Janice Gilman, and Treasurer Sandy Aitken. Members are acquainted through lectures, films, and discussions with the different aspects of nursing. Some of the many planned activities for the year include speakers from various community organizations such as the March of Dimes, Hampden County Medical Association and Visiting Nurses' Association. Trips are also planned to various hospitals and inter-school meetings are scheduled. All these factors and activities aid in the decision that each girl will have to make, "Shall I enter the field of nursing?"

"Hello, my name is Miss Kathy Moore and I am from the Visiting Nurses' Association." Janice Gilman and Kathy Slora greeted Miss Moore, R.N., one of the many guest speakers that have spoken at the Future Nurses's Club this year.

The William C. Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society has been an active organization throughout the school year. Juniors who have a 3.75 average are elected to membership in the middle of their junior year. Seniors are elected twice: those with a 3.5 average in the fall of their senior year, and those with a 3.25 average at the final senior assembly. Everyone eligible scholastically is also judged on the basis of scholarship, service, leadership, and character before being elected.

The Honor Society planned several events this year. In an effort to raise money, the Society held a very successful book fair in November. On December 22, the Annual Alumni Tea was given for all former Classical students. In April, new junior members were inducted at a fine Patriot's Day assembly planned by the group. New privileges have been granted this year to members of the Honor Society. All members are permitted to sign out during any of their unassigned periods, provided they return on time for their next assigned class. Members are pleased with their new privileges.

At the National Honor Society's successful November book fair, junior Diane Belt converses with Dr. Fredrick while Elaine Barratt, also a junior, seems absorbed in one of the books.

Classical scientists seek

The Biology Club, which meets twice a month, is an organization the purpose of which is to explore some new phase of biology not covered in the classroom. The Biology Club is under the direction of Mr. James O'Donnell, adviser, and Arlene Forestiere, president; Sandra Pescetta, vice-president; Shoshana Bacon, secretary; Steven Finkelstein, treasurer; and Jo-Anne Pease, program chairman. The club has had many fine activities during the year. First, a lecture on orthopedic surgery by Dr. Edward Ferrarone aided the club in its study of the human skeleton. Also during Dental Week a joint meeting with the Future Nurses Club enabled members to hear a lecture on the importance of good oral hygiene. Furthering their studies of reproduction, the members were given the opportunity of dissecting chick embryos along with the viewing of an explanatory film. A field trip to Forest Park proved most informative. Mr. Thompson explained and demonstrated bird handling techniques. Club meetings have been very informative and interesting for members of the Biology Club.

new worlds to conquer.

Irving Walker, Alan Searleman, David Bixby, Joseph Rosenblatt, Peter Dubiel, and Robert Young begin grinding the telescope mirror with the moon model in the background.

The Scientific Association, headed by President John Chaiken, Vice-President Peter DuBiel, Treasurer Michael Fay, and Secretary Irving Walker is guided by its very understanding adviser, Mr. Guzowski. During meetings, held every Thursday in 324, various projects are constructed. The six-foot moon model project in 323 will be completed as soon as a complete photograph of the dark side of the moon is available. An amateur radio station is being built and will be the first licensed "ham" station in the history of Classical. With this station, licensed members will communicate with hams on all continents. The major project is the reestablishment of an astronomical observatory at Classical. A modification of the observatory dome allowed it to rotate for the first time in years. Because the panel door on the dome blew off and damaged the school, members are not permitted to work in the observatory until the telescope, a four and one-half inch oblique reflector, is completed.

It's your move!

Andrea Hale looks happy with her recent move as Paul Chapin contemplates his next chess venture in order to defeat his woman adversary.

The Chess Club was established to instruct students in the proper fundamentals of the game of chess. The organization also instills in its members the spirit of sportsmanship and competition. The Chess Club members participated in challenging game among themselves as well as competing with other chess clubs in the area. By holding meets with other chess clubs, the clubs are able to win trophies as well as individual trophies. Through a four-month period, the team with the greatest number of accumulated points wins a trophy. Individual top players who have the greatest numbers of points are also awarded. The Chess Club has been a means of diversion for students who are interested in a game of skill and fun.

The game of chess has even invaded the stage crew. Keff Lagoditz and Fred Daly enjoy a quick game.

The Art Club encourages new ideas.

Working on entries for the Boston Globe Scholastic Art Awards contest are Ruth Watson, Donna Goldband, Thomasina Ferguson, Jane Herzenberg, and Elaine Fagan. Looking on approvingly are Carlton Gardner and Robert Koch.

There have been some modifications made in our art club this year, due to our new art teacher and club adviser, Mr. Nai. The art club has the responsibility of decorating the halls for the holiday seasons, and assisting other clubs and teachers with posters, suggestions, and ideas to enhance their assembly programs. In addition the art club has a new project. Every second and fourth Tuesday of each month the club members meet after school at one of the local museums or at art galleries to view and discuss first hand what is being created by the "professional" artists of our time. The club consists of a small group of interested students intent on developing their aesthetic sense, trying to understand the sensitivities of other artists, and trying to see the beauty and anguish in the world around them, in order that they may one day leave their pictorial record of life for posterity.

Language Clubs promote interest in the culture of the countries.

Nadine Chernock, Ellen Akerman, Roberta Bale, Amy Kligerman and Phil Axler play the game "Dreydel" which is symbolic of the holiday of Chanukah.

Mr. LeClair points out places of interest in Germany to German Club members Liz Stellman, Jane Pskowski, Janice Karp, Elain Radwanski, James Smith, Mr. LeClair, Janet Rothchild, Joan Lessar, and June Szfranski.

The language clubs at Classical High School acquaint interested students with the language, customs, and cultures of the country whose language they are learning to speak. By promoting a greater appreciation of the different aspects of life in other countries and its influence on modern day society, students will become better aware of the problems and responsibilities which will confront them in the future. The Hebrew Club, the Spanish Club, the French Club, the Latin Club, and the German Club concentrate on speaking the language in every day conversation. A festive celebration with games and songs such as the Hebrew Club's annual Chanukah party, under the direction of adviser Dr. Miller, brings Israeli life to America. Sponsoring a Christmas Assembly, under Mrs.

Cobb's direction, can be rewarding and as much fun as when the Spanish Club uses customs of Mexico. The French Club, supervised by Miss Rouillard, were guests of the director of museums and were given a guided tour of the Springfield Fine Arts Museum at which time they were introduced to French culture that formed the background of their study. The German Club, under the direction of Mr. LeClair, and the Latin Club, under the direction of Mr. Smith, increase their knowledge and understanding of Germany and Ancient Rome. Guest speakers, films, and discussions within these clubs add to the overall purpose of promoting universal friendship between countries throughout the world.

President: Doreen Scott

Vice President: Elizabeth Kenyon

Secretary: Ellen Akerman

Adviser: Mrs. Julia Beverley

Under the advisership of Mrs. Julia Beverley, the Junior Red Cross serves not only the school but also the community by supporting the local chapter of the American Red Cross. The first main project of the Junior Red Cross was its annual enrollment drive. This year in November the organization sponsored a successful "Red Cross Baby Day." Students donated money to their favorite baby who was one of the members of the faculty whose baby picture was on display. During mid-winter vacation the Classical Red Cross council participated in another annual project. A party at the South End Community Center was held for children from ages four to seven years old. The Red Cross generously supplied refreshments. Other important projects during the year were the Christmas decorations project at the Holyoke Soldiers' Home, and the March entertainment at Westover Air Force Base.

Preparing decorations for the Holyoke Soldier's Home was the first project for the Red Cross. Working on the project are Beverly Allen, Nancy Vagnini, Eileen Cooley, Jane Herzenberg, Elizabeth Kenyon, Carole Stasiowski, Ellen Akerman, Joyce Malone, and Elizabeth Bernstein.

IRC fosters international friendship.

Ronald Molino, member-at-large, points out on the map of Korea where the orphan lives to Janie Kowarsky, president; Debbie Boz-Beckian, secretary; Donna Zerwitz, treasurer; Roberta Feldman, vice president; and Bonnie Baird and Martha Aldrich, program chairmen.

The main project was the adoption of a Korean orphan. After raising eighty dollars, the application of IRC was sent to the Foster Parents' Plan. One month later, Jung Myung June was adopted by the International Relations Club. Myung June lives in Kangwon Ilo with his mother and three sisters. For the children and their mother, life is hard and bitter. The father died in 1960 leaving the family in very poor circumstances. The mother peddles fruits and vegetables from door to door, but her income is irregular and she never makes more than five dollars a month. Their food is the cheapest available in Korea, either boiled barley or noodles. They are all suffering from malnutrition. The entire family occupies one rented room which is dark and dirty. Myung June is in fifth grade at Hong Chun primary school. He is a pleasant, manly boy and wants to be a teacher when he grows up. Myung June is 49 inches tall and weighs 70 pounds. He was born on March 4, 1955. "Adoption" of Myung June provided him with new clothes, medical care, school supplies, and assures him of an education. His family will also enjoy and appreciate the material benefits, derived from his adoption. For the first time in their lives, Myung June and his family know the meaning of friendship.

Among the many guests who spoke before IRC we especially remember Dr. Anderson, Deborah BozBeckian, who showed slides of Spain and Portugal, Henry Green, who spoke about England, and Attorney Frank Freedman. As usual the club enjoyed Dr. Eunice Avery when she gave a lecture. Every year IRC awards scholarships to outstanding members. For the year 1965-1966, Judy Carlson and Sharon Clarke were the recipients of these scholarships. IRC owes much credit to its advisers, Mrs. Erard and Mr. Corbin.

Jung Myung June was adopted by the International Relations Club.

As the band plays "When Classical High Goes Marching Down the Field," the majorettes begin their well-rehearsed routine.

MAJORETTES

The majorette squad was composed of seven regulars and three substitutes. The seniors on the squad were captain Pam Meyers, co-captain Pat Austin, Cheryl Boone, Diane Brown, and Carole Cvarnstrom. Junior majorettes were Bonnie Baird, Kathy Plourd, Debbie Haas, Gretchen Holbrook, and Jackie Hall. In order to help Student Government welcome the freshmen in September, the squad did a routine at the Welcome Freshman Assembly. Throughout the fall, the "highstepping" twirlers marched with the band to provide half-time entertainment at the football games. In October, to honor the memory of Christopher Columbus, Classical's band was among the participants in the annual Columbus Day Parade. The majorettes were right in front leading the band. They also marched in the Halloween Parade at the "X" and the Veteran's Day Parade in November. As in other things, practice makes perfect. During the marching season, these girls could be found near the band room practising every-day.

At the Classical-Trade game, majorettes Debbie Haas, Bonnie Baird, Pat Austin, Pam Meyers, Kathy Plourd, Carol Kvarnstrom, and Cheryl Boone practice before the half-time intermission.

Jackie O'Dell, Carla Montori, Captain Francesca Montori, Donna Agan, Marsha Ware, Ann-Sue Megs, Tara Rahkola, and Carol Zucchi.

Under the able leadership of Captain Francesca Montori and Co-captain Judy Goldman, the energetic Classical cheerleaders have sparked Classical sports events with their boundless energy and effervescence. This year they have attended soccer and hockey games in addition to their usual football and basketball schedule. By presenting numerous skits at pep rallies, these bouncy girls have contributed to the enthusiastic support of Classical's teams.

The squad is composed of eight regulars, of which five are seniors and three are juniors, and of four substitutes and three alternates. They have worked hard to gain perfection in all cheers. Each spring, new girls are chosen for the following year's squad. After attending several practice sessions, hopefuls go through two eliminations, semi-finals, and finals before the new squad is determined. Practice sessions then begin immediately to perfect cheers for the next year's season.

BASEBALL

Coach Laude's Bulldogs ended the season with a 8-10-0 mark. They achieved a city league record of three wins and five losses after a hard fought game with Commerce, a long time rival, who in '65 took both city league games from Classical. The Bulldogs also defeated Trade twice in city league action with score of 9-8 and 6-0. Unfortunately, they were not able to overcome the strong Cathedral and Technical teams.

In independent games the Bulldogs did exceptionally well by tripping up Chicopee, Chicopee Comp, Minnechaug, Longmeadow, and East Longmeadow. Mickey Hambro, one of our Classical pitchers, put in a great game against Ludlow, by giving up only four hits. Steve Marino, another great Bulldog pitcher, played a fantastic game against East Longmeadow by pitching a two-hit shutout. All year the team was spurred on by the good hitting of Barry Metayer, Bill Burns, Rocky Talbot, and Bob Zanolli.

Ralph Petlock, holding the mound, follows through with a burning fast ball.

GOLF

The golf team, led by veteran Dan Gaudreau, completed a successful season by tying Technical High for the City Championship. The team edged away from Trade 15-3 in the first round and shut them out 18-0 in the second round. Taken by surprise, Classical lost to Cathedral 8½-9½, but our team came back to overpower them in the second round. The Junior Varsity also ended a favorable season with a 4-1 record.

Racketmen take City and Western Massachusetts Championships.

Matt Aranow, caught by surprise, maneuvers into a backhand position.

Mike Hechler catches one off the top of his racquet to stay in the strong competition.

TENNIS

The Bulldog racketmen completed one of their best seasons with an unbeaten record of twelve wins and no losses. Senior Mike Hechler, the team captain, and Tom Suher, a junior, helped spur Classical on to victory at each match. After successfully taking the City Championships, the Bulldogs placed second in all-around competition in the Western Massachusetts Tournament.

The members of the 1966 tennis team are — (kneeling) Phil Axler, Robert Maislen; (back row) Mike Hechler, Ralph Russomando, Thomas Suher, Charles Ratner, Marc Freeman, and Mat Aranow.

Oarsmen stroke their way to best season.

Classical oarsmen go through the tedious job of getting the shell to the river.

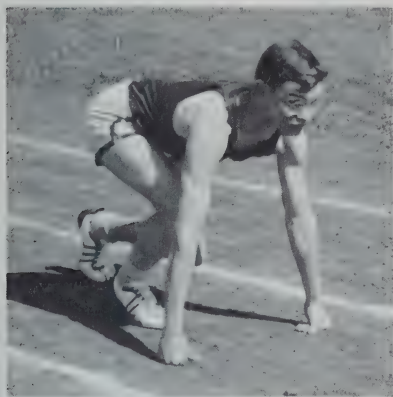

The crew team enjoyed one of its most successful seasons in recent years. Captained by Glenn Nicholson, the synchronized oarsmen displayed their best form of the season by narrowly defeating Technical in a race that is sure to be talked about by the two teams for many years to come. In the race, the two teams were evenly matched for the first half of the contest. Then toward the middle of the race, Tech pulled ahead of the Bulldogs. The Classical coxswain, Mark Glater, saw this and began to drive the oarsmen as fast and as hard as they could go. The Bulldogs pulled up to Tech and barely defeated them by only a few feet. This race, in which Classical left Arlington High School of Poughkeepsie, New York far behind, was a major regatta upset.

TRACK

Although the cindermen started off slowly this season, they ended up well. They fought the Trade Beavers in an important city meet and emerged victorious with a 73 to 58 win. They also won against Commerce with an impressive score of 78 to 44.

The tri-captains of this year's team were John Hennessy, William Purcell, and John McCarthy. Hennessy jumped the hurdles, while Purcell and McCarthy ran the distances. Steve Holuk was skillful at the broad jump and the high jump. Vince Robertson ran a superb mile and won his event in almost every meet.

FOOTBALL

Classical's Gridsters bulldozed to an impressive 5-2 season record, again taking the Small City Schools Championship. Led by the long arm of ace quarterback Barry Metayer, the team defeated arch rival Longmeadow by a 32-12 win. Veterans Steve Holuk and Dave Guidetti helped capture the game by receiving 13 out of 21 passes. Halfback Eddie Robinson caught a short pass from Metayer and ran 60 yards in action against Minnechaug. A definite high point of the season was the 21-14 win over the Red Raiders of Commerce. In this city team struggle, Metayer completed 8 out of 12 passes relying on the pass receiving ability of Steve Stratos and Ed Robinson. The East Longmeadow game proved to be another thriller, Guidetti and Holuk both adding points to the board. The season drawing to a close, seniors Barry Metayer, Steve Holuk, and Jim Smith drew honors for Classical by making the All Western Mass. Small Schools Team. Furthermore, senior Barry Metayer was picked as the city's top quarterback. Overall, this year's team proved to be one of the most versatile and all-around teams in the history of Classical.

Fullback John Cawley struggles to gain possession of the ball in first quarter action.

SOCCER

Considering that the 1966 season was a rebuilding one, the Classical soccer team did extremely well, both in City League and Independent League competition. Returning booters Gary Gaspar, a senior, and junior Mike Goldman led the offense to wins over Commerce and Trade. Both Steve Ellis, scoring two goals and Mike Goldman, tapping in three, were in the spotlight against the Red Raiders of Commerce. The Trade game was a real squeaker until veteran Bob Zanolli broke through with a second half goal to edge out the Beavers 2-1. Hampered by several injuries, the Classical booters then lost successive games to Cathedral and Ludlow, but sprang back to surprise Tech in a rainy day thriller. Considered by the soccermen as the season's most exciting game, the Bulldogs battled the stronger defense of Tech into several overtime periods. Senior Gary Gaspar scored the lone goal to hold the Tigers to a 1-1 deadlock. Later in the season, the booters lost to Tech 3-1 in a game which was essential for the City League Championship. Finishing out the season, Gary Gaspar captured a place on the All-Western Mass Team, and Mike Goldman took a utility man position on the Interschool League Team.

CROSS COUNTRY

In cross country, the sport in which the team with the least number of points wins, Peter Quirk has starred for Classical. Quirk has placed in every meet finishing first against Technical, second against Agawam, third against Tantasqua and Cathedral, and fourth against Southwick. Dave Latham also placed fourth in competition against Agawam.

This year's coaching job has changed hands and now Mr. Andrew Scibelli has replaced Coach Gallant, who left for Kennedy Junior High. Mr. Scibelli pushed his men and whipped them into shape so that they were able to beat Cathedral by a narrow one-point margin. Cross country, with Peter Quirk, Dave Latham, and George Racette, really had a memorable year.

WRESTLING

The Bulldog matmen, led by co-captains Larry DeBurro and Tom Andrews completed another exciting season. In city competition, Classical overthrew the Commerce Raiders 36-13 in a match which was ours all the way. In independent action, the Bulldog grapplers beat down stronger Pittsfield High to a 27-16 win. The team ended out the season by attending the Western-Mass. finals.

BASKETBALL

Crowned City League Champions, the Classical basketball team, coached by Phil Hart, celebrated its best season in eighteen years. The hoopsters started off excellently by clipping the Raiders of Commerce (54-39) in a game decided by the playmaking of center Barry Metayer. In fourth quarter action against Trade, the Bulldogs pulled ahead by a narrow margin (47-46) to keep their undefeated record. In the most decisive game of the season, the courtmen stole first-place away from interschool leader Cathedral in a drawn out battle in the second half. Lanky 6'5" George Kastrianakis, who averages 15.1 points per game, controlled the boards and tallied a high 23 points while Steve Stratos set up and scored 18 points from the outside. Bob Zanolli played an exceptional defensive game.

In Independent League competition, the Classical courtmen posted an easy (81-55) victory over Easthampton. Guard Steve Stratos tapped in 18 points and Ron Smith, an all-around ball handler, put in 12 points. Classical completed the season by capturing the top spot in the overall standings of the large schools.

HOCKEY

Classical has good reason to be proud of its hockey team this year. With another good record and the Wright Division Championship tucked under its belt, the team has had a very successful season.

An important and satisfying hockey contest was the Classical-Ludlow tilt in which our pucksters crushed unbeaten Ludlow by a score of 3-1. This game put Classical in first place and also avenged a previous loss handed to them by Ludlow.

Another exciting game was the Bulldogs' comeback to win over Trade. This win was the tenth for the pucksters and assured them of winning the Wright Division title. In the game, Tom Heap did an excellent job of netminding and contributed greatly to the Bulldog cause. Eddie Robinson's third period goal also gave the team the incentive to pull the game out. The skill and speed which won the game for the team also kept them in the number one slot for the rest of the season.

The Classical starting pucksters Eddie Robinson, Eddie Hayes, Mark Bousquet, Tom Heap, and Scott Craven pooled their efforts for the entire season to emerge victorious in almost all of their contests.

Defenseman Scott Craven breaks up the play to prevent Longmeadow from scoring.

Mermen glide to take city title.

Bob Young gets good form and height on this difficult dive.

Co-captains John Mapp and Joe Kaye put everything into a 50-yard sprint.

SWIMMING

Despite the fact that it was rebuilding, the swim team has had a very successful year. In the first meet of the season the team set the pace by drowning Trade. Then they moved up to tougher competition and came out by beating Tech with an impressive score. Then came crushing defeats by Minnechaug, Pittsfield, and Chicopee. After these came the meet that Otto's Bulldogs had been waiting for — Cathedral. Last year Cathedral took the city championship from Classical, but this year our mermen were determined to win! Classical started the meet off right by taking the medley relay and kept the lead for the entire meet. Mark Powell, Joe Kaye, Mike Adamchek, and Chip Tenney were all consistently good swimmers throughout the season.

Classical's bowlers enjoy successful year.

Standing with coach Jermakian are bowling team members Mike Hambro, Tony Digiovanni, Mark Allinson, Russ Winer, Paul Kabb, and James Methe.

BOWLING

The bowling squad, consisting of two seniors and three outstanding freshmen, won their first round in the championship with an impressive 21-8 record. The seniors on the team were Michael Hambro and Tony Digiovanni. Mike was the captain of the team and starred as the anchorman with a good 108 average. The team's freshmen Mark Allinson, Russell Winer, and James Methe were consistently good performers in the tough competition that they had to face.

GAA and Student Leaders

Junior and senior leaders who have been chosen to aid the gym teachers are (front row) Adrienne Cooke, Madeleine Ingram, Sheila Bewsee, Sally Merkin, Jane Pskowski, Donna Denny, Lynn Dee Payeur; (second row) Karen Ehrlich, Nancy Grimaldi, Gretchen Holbrook, Laurel Howe, Diane Belt, Elaine Barrett, Kathy Slora, Anne Kidder, Audrey Ricci, Pamela Meyers; (back row) Carla Van West, Nancy Tucker, Linda Lessara, Cynthia Walpurgis, Ellen Sullivan, Diane Downie, Cynthia Corbett, Susan Finch, Judith Carmen, Marcia Cutler, and Mary Ellen Eastwood.

The GAA Council, Sheila Bewsee, Susan Stachelek, Nancy Grimaldi, and Joyce Riley, are planning after-school activities for all Classical girls.

GAA-STUDENT LEADERS

The Girls' Athletic Association has done much to encourage girls to develop sportsmanship and special skills. Sheila Bewsee, Susan Stachelek, Nancy Grimaldi, and Joyce Riley, officers of GAA plan after-school activities for all Classical girls, receiving advice from Miss Niedeck and Mrs. Desrochers, the physical education teachers. If a girl participates in ten after-school activities, she automatically becomes a member of GAA and receives the privilege of voting in all GAA elections. At the end of her senior year, a girl receives a pin if she has completed 75 sessions.

Because of the increased number of students in the physical education classes, Mrs. Desrochers and Miss Niedeck have chosen freshmen and junior girls as well as senior girls to be student leaders. These students have shown leadership qualities as well as a good knowledge of basic skills. During a gym class, the student leaders conduct exercises and help the gym teachers in any way possible.

promote fun in athletics.

Mary Lou Neil reveals her determination as she releases the ball to roll down the alley, hoping that it hits in the right place.

An exciting game bowling is, as shown by Antionette Spinelli, when she made a strike.

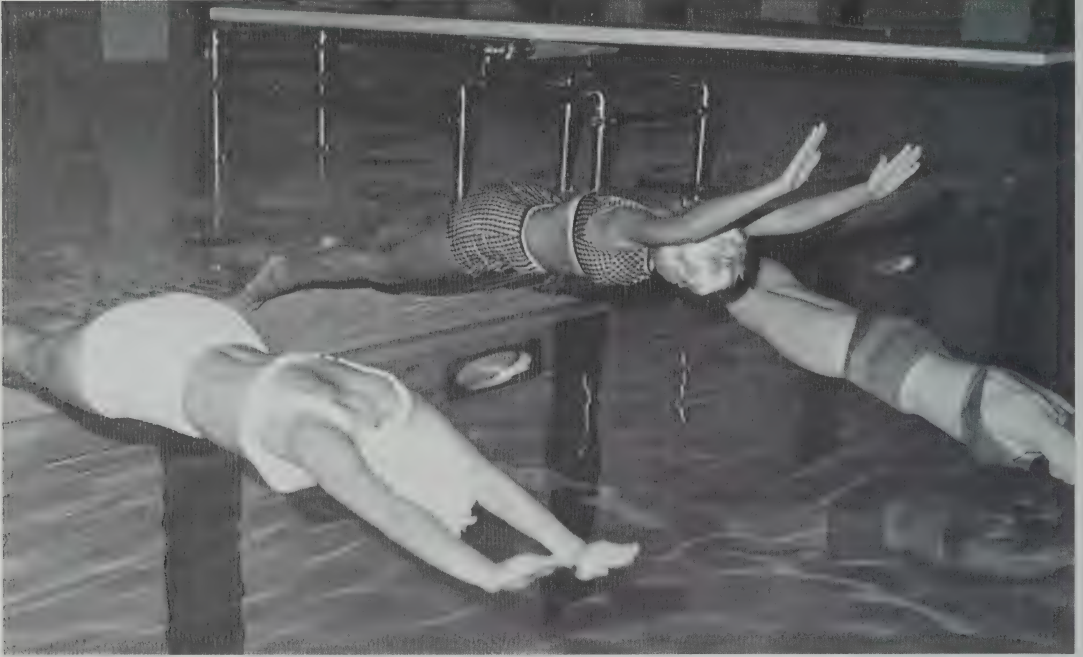

BOWLING

Bowling is more of an individual sport than a team sport. The results of each person's accomplishments are put together and counted as a team score. The bowling team this year achieved second place in the bowling tournament at Airway Lanes. Most valuable to the team was Dorothy Bennett, who won the trophy for the highest single score. One of the girls on the team expressed her feelings for bowling: "We find the game most exciting whether we win or lose, and this year we found it more exciting as we won most of the games in the tournament against the other high schools in the city."

The bowling team is composed of Diane Lessard, Antionette Spinelli, Mary Lou Neil, Elaine Paquet, Dorothy Bennett, Sheila O'Neill, and Patricia MacNamee.

Coordination and form are two major

Ann Counos, Carol Goodman, and Heidi Rogers have a race "just for fun."

Mary Lou Neil, comes out of a nicely formed and perfectly coordinated jackknife, as she welcomed the water before her, which will complete her dive.

SWIMMING

Swimming, primarily a summer sport, now becomes year-round and a sport of pleasure and challenge. In order to become a good swimmer, a girl must have good endurance, coordination, and breath control. The girls at Classical find swimming most challenging. The members of the swimming team are Adrienne Cook, Carol Goodman, Ann Counos, Mary Lou Neil, Brenda Pauline, Beverly Tournigy, Christine Kilbride, Christine Socha, and Heidi Rogers. Swimming is a form of enjoyment and competition. A good rugged swim in the form of competition, like a race, is often the experience of the girls who practice for speed. The last and most intricate of swimming forms is diving, involving the perfection of form and coordination. A jackknife dive is one of the most popular dives with Classical girls. The girls find swimming the most fun and the most "breathhtaking."

factors in swimming and apparatus.

Madeline Ingram does a beautifully formed split on the balance beam, which requires flexibility of the muscles in the legs, and balance.

Diane Belt does the splits on the still rings and seems to be enjoying it, as shown by her obvious expressions, "fun, fun, fun."

APPARATUS

Apparatus, not only takes determined effort, but gives enjoyment to many Classical girls. Many girls who never thought they could perform some of the more difficult stunts find that these stunts aren't so difficult if they practice after school. The girls discover that the once impossible stunt becomes second nature, and they are ready for more daring stunts. The girls who participate in apparatus not only benefit from the exercise gained in doing the stunts, but also enjoy themselves while doing the once impossible routine.

Audrey Ricci practices a hand-spring over the horse, assisted by Miss Niedeck and Mrs. Desrochers.

With speed and agility

Miss Niedeck gives a pep talk to Catherine Wolcott, Gretchen Holbrook, Janice Peacor and Barbara Hitchcock, who await a challenging track meet.

Elaine Radwanski and Janice Peacor face the shuttle relay with determination, inherent in Classicalites.

Able-jumper Barbara Hitchcock straddles the high jump bar mid-way through her high jump, to win second place in the meet.

TRACK AND FIELD

Track is one of the most difficult of all girls sports. It is an individual sport where the girls compete against each other. In the spring of each year, an Interschool track meet is held at Springfield College. In the last meet Classical placed second out of the five city high schools. Miss Mary-Jane Niedeck gives a pep talk to a few members of the track team who are Catherine Wolcott, Gretchen Holbrook, Janice Peacor and Barbara Hitchcock. By their smiling faces, one can tell that they are anticipating victory. The meet begins and Barbara Hitchcock expresses the determination of a "pro" as she leaps over the high jump bar. In this event Barbara placed second. "Ready! On your mark! Get set! Go!" In the light-colored pinnies, Classical girls Elaine Radwanski, and Janice Peacor anxiously await the shot of the gun for the shuttle relay to begin. Each girl must practice many hours to achieve enough speed and agility to pass the shuttle successfully.

Classicalites are victorious.

Judy Nicoll, in control of the ball, runs down the field for an attempted goal.

FIELD HOCKEY

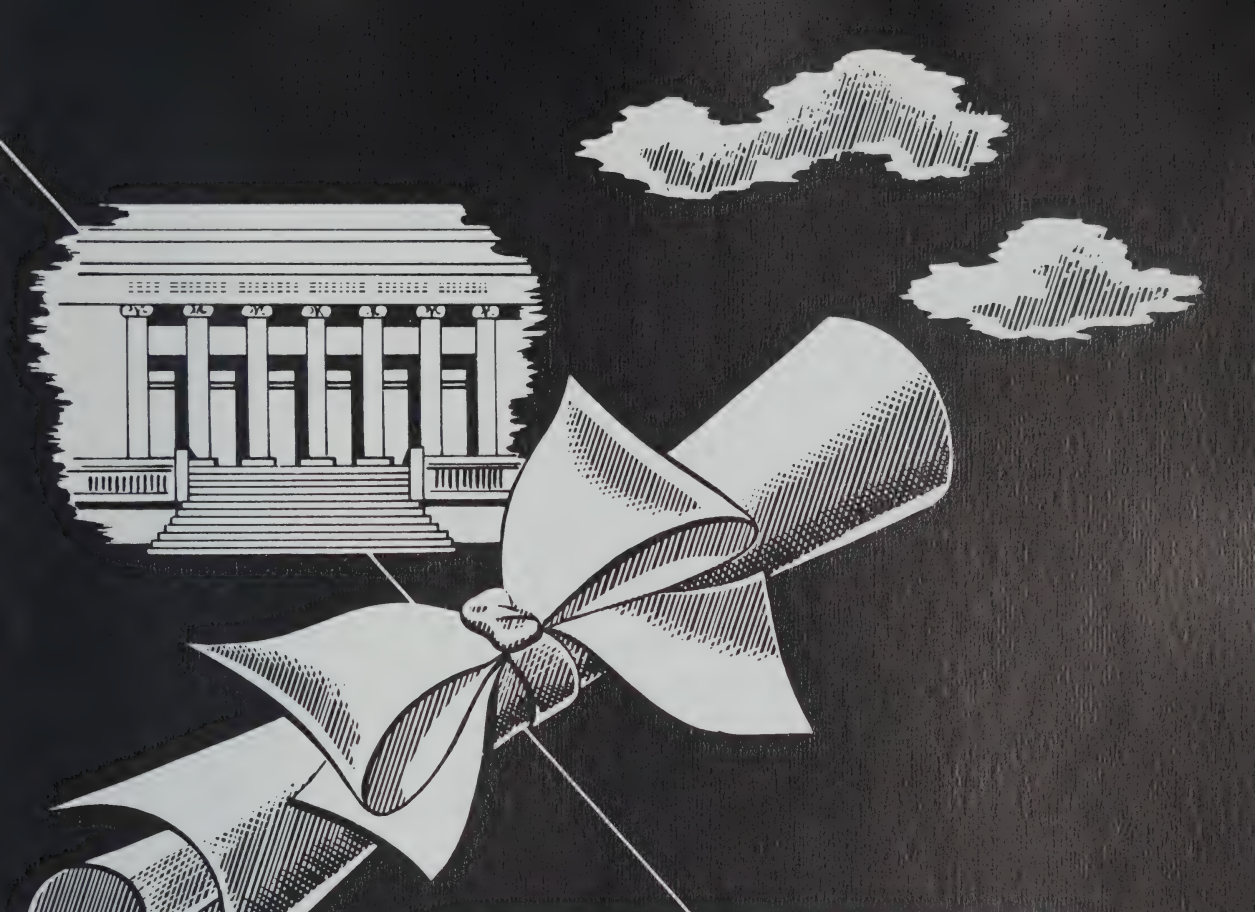

Field hockey, one of the most difficult sports is also one of the most popular sports at Classical. Coached by Mrs. Desrochers, the girls on the team went to Northbranch Playground every week to participate in competitive games with other schools in the city. The team, comprising some of the best girls participating in Classical girls' sports, frequently walked from the field with a victory. The girls on the hockey team are Caroline Whiting, Judith Nicoll, Sheila Bewsee, Nancy Grimaldi, Joyce Riley, Elaine Paquet, Teresa Minadakis, Victoria Minadakis, Carolyn Pine, Darlene Brown, Pat MacNamee and Kathleen Gorman. Starting one of the games, a Classical girl and an opponent prepare for the whistle starting the game with ground sticks, ground sticks, ground sticks, shooting the ball far down the field where Judy Nicoll receives it and starts down the field for an attempted goal. Halfway there she passes the ball to Nancy Grimaldi who runs into interference with a girl from the opposite team, who starts the ball going down the field in the opposite direction. Field hockey, growing in popularity as a competitive sport, may someday be the favorite sport for girls in the athletic association.

Nancy Grimaldi shows fine offensive strategy as she travels the length of the field.
